VICTIM OF MOB DIES IN FLAMES OF COURTHOUSE

Texas Officers Repulse Infuriated Throng Thrice in Vain.

VIOLENCE LAUNCHED ANEW DURING NIGHT

Citizens Battle Troops in Blackened Ruins of Building.

JAIL UNDER ATTACK FROM SECOND CROWD

Dynamite Used in Effort to Remove Burned Body From Vault.

Sherman, Tex., May 9 (A.P.).—A mob today burned down the $60,000 Grayson County Courthouse, cremating George Hughes, Negro, after unsuccessfully attempting to seize him from officers.

Hughes, who had pleaded guilty to assaulting a white woman, died in a vault in the courthouse in which he had been placed for safety by Texas Rangers and local officers when the mob stormed the building, crying for his life.

Violence broke out anew tonight as a mob of several thousand persons divided into two sections, one battling a detachment of National Guardsmen on the square where the courthouse had been burned and another mob storming the jail.

Crowd Attacks Troops.

Hardly had a detachment of 60 or 70 men from the 144th Infantry, Texas National Guard, arrived from Dallas when the mob again unleashed its fury. The troops attempted to drive the crowd from the grounds of the smoke blackened courthouse. The crowd attacked the guardsmen with fists, sticks, stones, and bottles.

While this melee was in progress another portion of the mob advanced upon the Grayson County Jail and the guardsmen were compelled to divide their forces to send help to Sheriff Arthur Vaughan and his men. One man was reported shot in the encounter at the jail, but his name was not learned.

Reports had been current that Sheriff Vaughan had resigned, but when telephoned at the jail he said: "I don't know now. They're storming my jail. I'll talk to you later."

Negro Quarter Deserted.

The Negro population of Sherman, estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000, was nowhere to be seen tonight, and the Negro quarter of the city was deserted.

Rumors had been current at various times during the afternoon that the mob intended to march upon the Negro quarter tonight and burn all buildings there.

Appeals were sent out to neighboring cities to rush police officers to the assistance of Sherman authorities.

Attempt to Reach Body.

After pulling down brick walls about the vault where the Negro was cremated, members of the mob obtained ladders and climbed up to the vault and placed several sticks of dynamite on top of its door, which they had been unable to open. They lighted a long fuse, but it went out without exploding the charge. Before they could climb to the vault to light the fuse again the guardsmen from Dallas arrived and the mob turned its attention to resisting efforts made by troopers to clear the courthouse grounds.

Driven back three times early today in the attack on the courthouse by officers who hurled tear gas bombs and fought with fists and clubs, but did not shoot into the crowd, the mob finally set fire to the courthouse. An earlier attempt to dynamite the structure had failed.

The body of the Negro, Sheriff Arthur Vaughan said, remained tonight in the vault among the ruins of the building.

Five Youths Injured.

Five white youths were injured in the rioting, being clubbed on the heads. There were unverified reports that one man had been seriously wounded by one of the few shots fired by a member of the mob during the rioting.

Although the crowd appeared to have quieted down after the destruction of the courthouse, the atmosphere was surcharged with tension. There were unverified reports that members of the mob planned to go to Negro sections of the city tonight and burn houses.

The dispatch of National Guard troops here to assist local officers was expected to put a damper on further trouble.

Col. Lawrence McGee arrived from Dallas with 60 men and Capt. George Hagans brought 10 National Guardsmen from Denison, heavily armed and 40,000 Watch Favorite Finish Strong to Beat Crack Brigade.

(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Pimlico Race Track, Md., May 9.—Gallant Fox won the fortieth Preakness gallantly, after a hard fight, in which Earl Sande made a strong finish after a slow beginning on the son of Sir Galahad II—Marguerite. He beat a game horse in T. M. Cassidy's Crack Brigade, Ellis up, by three-fourths of a length. Six lengths backs of these Walter J. Salmon's filly, Snowflake, the only filly in the race, took third honors and J. L. Pontius's Michigan Boy was fourth.

Behind these was Tetrarchal, early pace maker, Armageddon, Gold Brook, Swinfield, Sweet Sentiment, from Canada, and Full Dress.

Gallant Fox paid $4, even money, but was $4.30 to place. Crack Brigade was $7.20 for place and Snowflake $3.70 to show. The time was 2:00 3-5. The share to the winner was $52,925 including his own $1,000 entrance fee. The second horse earned $5,000, third $3,000 and the fourth $2,000.

Vice President Charles Curtis, the Governor of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie, Senator Tydings and many other prominent persons were among the 40,000 spectators at this colorful and classic race, in which the public visioned the winner of the Kenutcky Derby and other big stakes. Gallant Fox will go to Louisville Sunday and Sande will ride the Preakness hero in the Derby.

Earl Sande said Gallant Fox broke well, but he took him back to escape

FORMAL ACCUSATION PUT AGAINST CANNON

He and Three Other Bishops Charged With Political Activity in Church.

ALL CLAIM UNCONCERN

Dallas, Tex., May 9 (A.P.).—Four bishops named in charges preferred today at the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, attacking their administrations and in particular alleged political activities, declined to show concern over the charges tonight.

Two of them, Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Virginia, and Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, of Charlotte, N. C., said they had no statements to make. Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, said: "I wouldn't know what to say if I said anything."

Bishop H. M. Dubose, of Nashville, Tenn., in the absence of comment from the other three, declared the most serious view that could be taken was to regard the action of the bishops, the alleged deeds of misconduct, as "a commonplace of citizenship right and privilege under the law."

The charges were preferred by the Rev. Rembert Smith, of Washington.

BAKER KILLING AIRED AT CAPITOL HEARING

Police on U. S. Road Would Have Prevented Murder, Says House Member.

PASSAGE OF BILL URGED

The murder of Mary Baker, whose ravished and bullet-rent body was found outside Arlington Cemetery a month ago tomorrow, was brought into the debate at a hearing on Capitol Hill yesterday.

Had the Cemetery road, where the body was dumped, been properly policed, Representative John J. McSwain (Democrat), South Carolina, declared, the Baker murder might never have been committed.

The hearing, which was conducted by the Wainwright subcommittee of the House military affairs committee, was on a bill by Representative R. Walton Moore (Democrat), of Virginia, which would extend the jurisdiction of the Federal Park Police into nearby Virginia.

Today the two Federal roads leading from Highway Bridge and Key Bridge, and the one skirting the cemetery, are a virtual no-policeman's land. There are no Federal police-

6,000-Mile National Park Tour Planned by President

Summer Trip to Take Him as Far West as California.

(Associated Press.)

A tour of the Far Western national parks during August is the summer vacation plan of President Hoover.

Starting at the northern end of the group, he intends to motor slowly southward through Glacier, Yellowstone and Estes Parks to his home at Palo Alto, Calif. On the return trip, he would visit Yosemite and Grand Canyon Parks.

During the early summer months, the President expects to remain in the Capital most of the time, spending the week-ends at his fishing camp in Virginia. These will begin today, when he will go to the camp for a day's fishing with a small party of friends, returning tomorrow.

The proposed trip of more than 6,000 miles would take the President

PENSION BILL ENACTMENT IS HELD ASSURED

Senator Dale Declares His Readiness to Support Act.

DEADLOCK BROKEN AFTER LONG DELAY

Vermonter Feels Added Cost of Measure to Be $10,000,000.

ANNUITY PROVISION SETS $3,000 LIMIT

Hoover Approval Expected as President Suggested New Legislation.

The new White House bill to liberalize the civil service retirement act will soon be enacted into law, it appeared last night.

The deadlock in which the bill has been gripped for a month or more was broken by a statement from Senator Porter Dale (Republican), of Vermont.

Senator Dale, who is chairman of the Senate civil service committee, and thus is chief of the Senate conferees on the bill, announced that he was ready to give his approval to the measure. He will do this formally, he said, at an early meeting between Senate and House conferees.

Final Approval Assured.

A statement like this from Senator Dale was all that was needed to insure final approval of the bill. That the other Senate conferees will go along with him is assured. As for the House conferees, they have always stood ready to approve the bill—at least a majority of them have.

It had been expected that Senator Dale would hold out until Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, agreed upon a compromise. Evidently this is not to be the case. The bill is so constructed, the Vermont senator said last night, that if one section is removed, the entire structure will tumble down. Consequently, he said, he is ready to accept it substantially as it stands.

Senator Dale expressed the opinion that the new bill would cost the Federal Government about $10,000,000 additional, nearly twice as much as his own bill would have cost. From the standpoint of the employe and the annuitant, he conceded, it ought to be a good bill.

Coolidge Veto Recalled.

"President Coolidge pocket vetoed my bill because it cost too much," chuckled the senator. "I hate to think what he would have done to this one."

No such fears, however, are entertained where President Hoover is concerned, for it was he who suggested the new bill. Long a student of retirement, he wanted to see established a real, scientific system of retirement. The Dale bill, he believed, fell short of doing this.

The principal difference between the two bills is that, whereas under the Dale bill, the maximum annuity a retired employe may receive is set at $1,200, under the new bill a retired employe may receive an annuity as high as $3,000. It all depends upon what he puts into the retirement fund.

Benefits Two Groups.

While it benefits the higher paid employes, it also benefits the extremely low-paid employes, giving them annuities considerably higher than are provided by the Dale bill. Those between these two groups are not affected much one way or another.

In respect to service and retirement ages, the two bills are alike. Both provide for optional retirement after 30 years of service, and both

KING APPOINTS MASEFIELD AS POET LAUREATE

Man Who Roamed World as Hobo Successor to Dr. Bridges.

ONCE WAS CHORE BOY IN NEW YORK SALOON

Washed Cuspidors and Polished Glasses for $10 a Month.

SURPRISED AT CHOICE; POEMS MAY BE FEW

Indicates He Will Not Grind Out Verses on Events of Minor Importance.

New York, May 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—John Masefield may now be poet laureate of the empire on which the sun never sets, but 35 years ago he was a saloon porter in Greenwich Village, a lowly being far below the level of a bartender. The emporium in which he served was the famous one of Luke O'Connor, who is dead now, but who lived to see his chore boy become a famous poet.

In 1895 Masefield landed here, a lad of 17. He had been three years at sea and out of it he had gotten $5 in cash and an ambition to write. In Greenwich Village he shared a cheap room with two other men, slept on a pile of newspapers on the floor and lived on about 10 cents a day. At times he found odd jobs along the water front.

Then Luke O'Connor spied the gangling youth one night outside his saloon at Greenwich avenue and Christopher street and offered him a job washing glasses and cleaning up at $10 a month.

Kept Brasswork Shining.

"I never really reached the heights of being an artist of drink-mixing," Masefield said later, in 1926, when he again visited in New York. "What I really did was to wash out the cuspidors, sweep and scrub the floor and put the chairs on top of the tables. Besides that I had to wash the glasses for the bartenders and polish the foot rails, aside from pacifying warring factions in the saloon."

As for Mr. O'Connor, if any one had told him then that the new porter was going to win fame as a poet, he would have gotten a good laugh. "To watch him you would have thought that he had ambitions to be a bartender," he commented long afterward. "He certainly made things shine, and never a word of being tired."

Masefield soon began taking his meals with the O'Connors and looking after the O'Connor baby, but after four months he heard of a better job and cleared out for Yonkers. There he made $1 a day in a carpet factory. Out of this sum he managed to buy many books.

Found Delight in Chaucer.

He had expected to become a doctor some day, but one of the books he bought was a copy of Chaucer. He found in that "a new world of wonder and delight," he wrote later, and realized that he was meant for a poet. He returned to England in 1897 and began writing. His first book of poems, "Salt Water Ballads," was published in 1902.

Many years later, when Masefield had grown famous, O'Connor was touring Europe. He tried to find his erstwhile porter, but failed, because Masefield was living in seclusion at Oxford, but on his last visit to New York the poet promptly looked up O'Connor and they talked about old days. O'Connor, retired from the saloon business after the coming of prohibition, was managing a club.

WET ISSUE IS RAISED AS SENATE RECEIVES ROBERTS NOMINATION

OWEN JOSEPHUS ROBERTS.

1923 Speech of Supreme Court Designee Is Brought Up.

PRESIDENT HOOVER KNEW OF INCIDENT

Defeat of Parker Seen by Drys as Thrust of Wet Forces.

FORMER STAND READY TO PICK UP GAGE NOW

Southern Group Smarts as It Senses Intended Slap at Dixie.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Owen J. Roberts, special prosecutor for the Government in the oil cases, was yesterday nominated for the hotly controverted Supreme Court vacancy, and within a few minutes there was a rumbling of Senate opposition. And in the light of the slowness with which the opposition to Chief Justice Hughes and Judge John J. Parker developed, it would be foolish to say that the rumble against Mr. Roberts will not develop into a fire.

The opposition rests upon a denunciation of the eighteenth amendment that Mr. Roberts is reported to have made in 1923. The newspaper report of it is not very clear and does not contain direct quotations, and it is the impression that this is what gives the White House heart. President Hoover knew of the incident before he made the appointment, which means that it is not something sprung on him out of a clear sky. It was a subject of discussion between him and some of his advisers Thursday night.

The newspaper account was put into the Congressional Record by Senator Walsh, of Montana, during the [illegible] counsel in 1924. It was the account of a speech made by Mr. Roberts before the twelfth annual dinner of the Trust Companies of the United States at New York, February 15, 1923.

Prohibition Thrust Secondary.

The Montana senator placed the account in the record for the light it showed on Mr. Roberts' attitude toward big business. Apparently his attack on prohibition was a secondary utterance. He was defending the large salaries of the officials of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, asserting they were entitled to the large salaries because it was their business to increase production which meant price reductions to the consumer. He was characterizing an investigation which a Senate subcommittee was making of the matter as "nationalization" propaganda. Then the article continued:

"Mr. Roberts said he was not an advocate of prohibition, but he denounced the eighteenth amendment as the insertion of a 'police regulation' into the Constitution which was reduced to the status of a city ordinance.

"He attacked the Government for the condition in which the railroads were left at the conclusion of Government operation and assailed Government generally for absorbing too much control over everything.

Sees Government Interference.

"'Everywhere you turn, judicial and semijudicial administrative commissioners, investigating bodies, inspectors of every known variety are found,' Roberts said. 'The result is that the business man in America today feels that he is doing business with a minion of the Government looking over his shoulder with an upraised arm and a threatening scowl.'"

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, immediately announced he would oppose Roberts, and other drys, particularly Southerners, privately expressed themselves as unfriendly.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, hearing the rumble, communicated

HIGH PAY FOR CAGLE WINS ARMY RELEASE

Service Rule Is Waived to Allow Star to Take Coaching Position.

HIS FUTURE CONSIDERED

West Point, N. Y., May 9 (A.P.).—Christian Keener Cagle, the red-headed youth from Louisiana, whose name has become a synonym for gridiron greatness, has decided not to carry a sword in Uncle Sam's peace time Army after four years of preparations at the United States Military Academy.

Cagle, who rounded out four years of the most brilliant ball carrying in Army football history as captain of the cadet eleven last fall, announced formally today that he will resign from the service after graduation June 12 to coach at Mississippi A. and M. College and accept a business offer as well.

Although he signed the usual agreement upon entering the academy to serve four years in the regular army after graduation, it is understood that his resignation will be accepted by the War Department because of the "unusual circumstances" provided by the financial inducements.

Cagle said in a statement issued to the press and authorized by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, commandant of cadets, that the combined salary of his two offers "is considerably more than the pay of a major general, a rank I would indeed be most fortunate to attain after 30 or 25 years of service."

Cagle entered the academy from Merryville, La., and was one of the last cadets to play as a plebe on the varsity before the three-year rule went into effect. For four years as a half back his play was sensational. He became the greatest "drawing card" in college football. He was

HOUSE WILL INQUIRE INTO RED ACTIVITIES

Whalen Recommends Adequate Deportation Law for Unruly Aliens.

CITES VIOLENT STRIKES

(Associated Press.)

A new draft of a House resolution to provide for an investigation by a special committee of Soviet propaganda, commercial organizations and the purported official organizations of the Communist party in America was prepared yesterday in the rules committee for introduction Monday.

While this powerful group was pondering the proposal for the inquiry, Grover Whalen, police commissioner of New York City, was predicting before the House immigration committee that the future activities of Communist agitators "will depend on the success which they meet in their present efforts."

Pending completion of an investigation now being conducted, however, Mr. Whalen declined to reveal to the committee what he has termed evidence of a "red menace" in the capture of alleged correspondence between the Third Internationale and various officials of the Amtorg, Soviet commercial organization. These officials have declared the documents were forgeries.

Following the commissioner's presentation before the committee Chairman Johnson said that all heavily populated cities of the country are now having trouble with Communist agitators who are taking advantage of the unemployment situation.

Mr. Whalen attributed to communistic activities a program of violence "seeking to destroy the American Federation of Labor." He enumerated numerous strikes in New York, mostly during the past two years, though one as early as 1926,

McBride Claim Dry League Is 'Born of God' Stirs Row

Blaine and Antisaloon Head Take Turns Calling Each Other Sacrilegious.

(Associated Press.)

An assertion by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, that the organization had been "born of God" produced a lively controversy yesterday before the Senate lobby committee.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, the only wet member of the committee, described the statement as "sacrilegious" and "an outrageous thing," and Mr. McBride retorted that Senator Blaine's remarks were "sacrilegious."

The exchange resulted when Senator Blaine asked the witness if he had made a statement in a speech that the league had been "born of God."

"The league was born of God," Mr. McBride replied. "It has been led by with Mr. Roberts by telephone and reported:

"He said that he wasn't discussing prohibition but was discussing the lawyer's question of whether it was preferable to act in matters of this kind by statute or by constitutional amendment."

Subsequently, Senator Sheppard said he had been told that Mr. Roberts "had denied" the story and he was, therefore, withholding judgment. There the matter rested for the night. The Antisaloon League is in the meantime looking into the matter.

Prohibition as Factor.

The prohibition issue may easily become a burning one because it was charged on the floor by supporters of Judge Parker that the underlying opposition to him was because he was a dry. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, for one, charged it. The belief was expressed that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment had "planted" the labor and Negro issues. The charge was flattering to the wet association but it was given some weight by the developments before the lobby committee when H. H Curran, head of the wet organization, testified that the Supreme Court was where the wets expected to get relief.

Senator Simmons said significantly concerning Mr. Roberts:

"I said on the floor that any dry would be opposed. Now whether a wet will be remains to be seen."

To add to the dry flame, if the wet case against Mr. Roberts stands up, is the fact that the Southerners are resentful that Mr. Hoover did not appoint another Southerner. They take the appointment of Roberts as a carrying out of his threat that Parker's rejection precluded any Southerner on the court and as applying not only to the present vacancy, but to the entire reorganization which it is expected will come during Mr. Hoover's administration.

Must Have Aid to Win.

The Southern drys, however, could not defeat confirmation. Whether the "liberals" would join them is a question.

Senators Borah and Norris gave every evidence of being tickled to death when they first heard of the nomination. They did not say anything publicly, however. They did not accept him as a liberal, but they were inclined to look upon his appointment as a victory because of his outstanding work in the oil cases.

Subsequently, however, their enthusiasm cooled appreciably when it developed that in the last three years Roberts has won three victories before the Supreme Court on the very issue on which they based their opposition to Chief Justice Hughes and Judge Parker.

Strangely enough, one was on the same human interest story which was widely published by the opponents of Hughes.

Roberts Had Case Upset.

It was the so-called Baizley case. Baizley had been making repairs on a steamship in dock at Philadelphia. There was an explosion and he was permanently disabled. He was awarded compensation under the workmen's compensation act of Pennsylvania.

Appearing before the Supreme Court, Roberts had the award overturned on the ground that it was an admiralty case, not coming under the compensation law. Justices Brandeis, Holmes and Stone dissented.

In 1928, Roberts was successful in having the court overturn a corporation tax that the State of Pennsylvania had sought to levy on taxicabs in interstate commerce. This was the Quaker City Cab case. The three well-known dissenters dissented again.

In 1929, Roberts, representing Louis K. Liggett, chain drug store man, had the court overturn another Pennsylvania law requiring all pharmacists to register. Justices Holmes and Brandeis dissented in this case.

Conceded to be Eminent Lawyer.

The two former cases turned on the famous fourteenth amendment out of which all this controversy of human versus property rights grew.

Of course, any fight that develops on Roberts will have to go up against the same obstacle that the Hughes opposition encountered, his standing in the country. Roberts is generally conceded to be one of the most eminent lawyers in the country and his liberal critics would be confronted with his record in the oil prosecutions.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, questioned his availability at the time of his selection as one of the two oil counsel, but subsequently refrained from voting. Roberts was confirmed at that time, 68 to 8. Senators Borah, Norris and Johnson voted for him, while the elder La Follette and Senator Wheeler were among those voting against.

Just Past 55 Years of Age.

None of them, however, would now criticize his work in the oil cases. And incidentally he has never received a cent of pay for this work, not yet, at least. He has given a large share of his time for the past six years to this work.

Mr. Roberts has just passed his fifty-fifth birthday.

He has practiced law in Philadelphia since 1898. At the outset of his career he began the teaching of law and in that way came in contact with Justice Stone. It was Justice Stone, incidentally, who suggested him as one of the oil counsel. He may have had something to do with his appointment to the Supreme Court.

Friends of Mr. Roberts say he has never been the counsel for any corporation, but has always maintained his private business. He has taken corporation cases, of course, but as one friend put it, he always has selected his cases.

The Senate judiciary committee will give its first consideration to the nomination Monday.

Roberts Willing to Accept.

Philadelphia, May 9 (A.P.).—Owen Josephus Roberts, nominated by President Hoover for the Supreme Court bench, will accept the appointment.

"Any lawyer who loves his profession as I do," Mr. Roberts said to the Associated Press, "considers it the highest honor that could be offered him in his profession, and I consider it my duty and pleasure to accept."

Announcement that Mr. Roberts had been selected for the Supreme Court vacancy, came here while he was in New York, and he was out of touch with his office and friends until he returned late today.

139 PLANE SQUADRON SETS FLIGHT MARK

Washington Treated to View of Fleet on Return From New York.

ADAMS INSPECTS SHIPS

Establishing new reliability and distance records for large group flying, 139 planes from the Navy battle fleet at Hampton Roads yesterday treated Washington to the greatest aerial review in its history.

Swarming out of the north from New York, where they participated in the recent air show, the seven V-shaped squadrons circled the city, dipped gracefully over the White House, and passed in review over the Capitol, without once breaking their compact battle formation.

After landing three at a time on the Anacostia air field, the torpedo, bombing and observation planes were aligned for inspection by Secretary of the Navy Adams and Admiral C. F. Hughes, chief of naval operations. The ships left immediately afterward for Hampton Roads, arriving without mishap shortly after 4 o'clock.

Officials announced that the flight of more than 1,000 miles set a distance record for squadrons totaling more than 130 planes.

A record for reliability was also claimed when it was reported that one broken strut represented the total damage occurring on the flight from Hampton Roads to New York and return.

The squadrons flew over Philadelphia, Baltimore and Annapolis before reaching Washington in the early afternoon.

Charge of Liquor Sale At Leprosarium Denied

New Orleans, La., May 9 (A.P.).—Denial that liquor had been sold at the Federal leprosarium at Carville, La., as charged recently in an anonymous letter sent to the Treasury Department, was made here today by Dr. John McMullen, sr., surgeon in the United States Health Service at New Orleans.

"A full investigation of the charges has been made," said Dr. McMullen, and they have been found to be without foundation. The man who wrote the anonymous letter to the department in Washington has been declared insane by a lunacy commission. There is no liquor sold at Carville."

Son of Novelist Dies Of Injuries in Crash

Oswosso, Mich., May 9 (A.P.).—James Oliver Curwood, son of the late novelist, died at 8:30 o'clock tonight from injuries received in an airplane accident Thursday night. He was 19 years old. He died without gaining consciousness.

Curwood, who was a licensed pilot, took two passengers up from the Owosso Airport last night. While he was attempting a landing a wing of the plane struck a tree, and the machine nose dived 50 feet to the ground. Miss Beatrice Pine, 20, received a concussion of the brain and is in serious condition. Hugh Pate, 23, the other passenger, had a leg fractured.

Plea for Property Denied to Brother

Sister Upheld by Court as Entitled to Premises Mother Left Her.

Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court yesterday denied application of Tefft Johnson to set aside a deed made by his mother, Mrs. Anna W. Johnson, creating a joint tenancy of premises at 1700 L street northwest in favor of herself and her daughter, Abby. Mr. Johnson claimed that on April 16, 1926, his mother, then 78 years of age, purchased the property, conveyed it to a straw man and immediately afterwards it was reconveyed to his mother and sister.

Mrs. Johnson died on July 9, 1927, and as a result the title to the property survived to the daughter. Mr. Johnson also claimed that at the time of the conveyances his mother was physically infirm and that her mind and mentality were failing and she was incapable mentally of executing the conveyances. He also charged that the property was valued at $50,000 and that he was entitled to his share as one of his mother's heirs at law.

Miss Abby Johnson, through Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, R. H. Yeatman and Austin F. Canfield, denied her brother's allegations. In addition she showed that she had been her mother's constant companion for 30 years and that the parent was desirous of seeing that she came into possession of the property at her death. Attorneys D. W. O'Donoghue and Arthur A. Alexander appeared for Mr. Johnson.

AIR ARMADA OF 139 PLANES VISITS CAPITAL

NAVAL SUPPLY BILL BRINGS HOUSE CLASH

Britten Says Billion-Dollar Program Reflects View of Administration.

FRENCH ADVOCATES CUT

(Associated Press.)

Warship construction provisions of the London naval treaty yesterday led to a clash in the House between Chairman Britten of the House naval committee, and Representative French (Republican), Idaho, in which the former claimed he represented the administration's views in introducing his so-called billion-dollar building program.

The encounter came during debate on the annual supply bill, calling for an outlay of $379,000,000 during the fiscal year 1931 and carrying more than $57,000,000 for modernization and construction of warcraft.

Representative French, chairman of the House naval appropriations subcommittee, advocated a conservative construction program under the treaty which would not build up to the limitations, shortly after Britten introduced a bill to authorize an expenditure of $936,995,000 to construct ships to the limit of the pact by 1936. Mr. Britten has contended the new construction was necessary to obtain parity with Great Britain under the treaty.

French Expresses Own Views.

Mr. Britten asked Mr. French if he was "talking for himself or the administration," and the Idahoan replied: "In anything I may say here I shall express my personal views."

"The gentleman is chairman of the committee and is in touch with the various departments," the Illinois member said, "particularly the department having in charge this particular bill, and is supposed to express the sentiments of the department."

Mr. French turned upon his questioner and asked:

"Would the gentleman say that that is what he had in mind when he introduced his bill?"

"Yes, all the figures in my bill were received from the Secretary of the Navy, every figure and every dollar in that bill," Mr. Britten replied.

Figures From Navy Department.

"Does the gentleman mean to say that it is the thought of the administration that a bill along the lines he has introduced, carrying all the obligations involved in the money total, carrying the program of construction up to the limit—is that the policy the administration has approved? Does he want the House to understand that?"

The Illinois member said that the figures in his bill and the type of ships of the various categories had been carefully prepared by the Navy Department, which, he declared, "indicated to my mind that the present administration has every intention in the world of living up to the requirements of that treaty and I hope that it does."

Explaining that he was in accord with the Idahoan on a spirit of conservatism and economy Mr. Britten said he did not believe that the people of the United States would be satisfied with a second-class Navy.

ITALY'S SEA POLICY OUTLINED BY GRANDI

Foreign Minister Ready for Final Parley With Paris and London, He Avers.

MUSSOLINI HEARS TALK

Rome, May 9 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini sat in the Chamber of Deputies today and heard his foreign minister, Dino Grandi, affirm that Italy is ready to enter forthwith into final naval negotiations with Great Britain and France.

The premier remained throughout the entire hearing of Signor Grandi's speech, which went fully into the London naval parley and Italy's participation in The Hague conference.

The foreign minister declared that Italy, geographically, economically and strategically, was the most vulnerable of all the great naval powers He also asserted, dealing with the principle of parity, that it should not only apply to capital ships but should be extended to all armaments.

"Italy went to London," declared Signor Grandi, "with a plea for a definite reduction, not merely limitation."

"Limitation should not have as its consequence an augmentation or a crystallization of armament. Italy recognizes the connection existing between armaments and security but believes that the importance of armaments is not absolute but relative, according to the armaments of other countries.

"The Agreement of London," said Signor Grandi, "gives substantial results of self-evident importance, with the end of Anglo-American rivalry the friendship of these two countries, which is of enormous importance to the world, becomes fairly established."

The foreign minister said that Italy was ready to again take up naval discussions. It was provided in the London treaty that England, Italy and France might continue their negotiations as the three European countries represented in the conference. He concluded that "collaboration between France and Italy, from whence the modern civilization of the world has sprung, is an indispensable condition for Europe."

AMERICA FACES RIFT IN CANADA RELATION

Failure of Hoover to Name Minister and Tariff Seen Cooling Cordiality.

MACDOUGAL NEW ENVOY

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Relations between the United States and Canada are in danger of becoming less cordial as a result of an unfortunate series of incidents which are causing increasing concern both here and at Ottawa. Latest reports from the Canadian capital show the need of prompt measures to check the drift of sentiment unfavorable to America, which has become progressively more pronounced during the last few weeks and has culminated in the passage of the recent Canadian tariff duties.

The delay in appointing an American Minister to Canada is being used as a means of encouraging Canadian resentment by those who are interested in promoting rapprochement between Great Britain and Canada. Since the resignation of William Phillips last year no successor has been named. No explanation of the delay has been forthcoming and, under normal circumstances, none might be required. The natural assumption would be that President Hoover would appoint a successor to Mr. Phillips in due course, and there have been indications that the President was simply waiting to find the right man for the post.

Yields on Prohibition.

But prior to the resignation of Mr. Phillips there were insistent demands from certain quarters in the United States that an American Minister remain away from Canadian soil until Canada by appropriate legislation agreed to cooperate in checking liquor smuggling. The Canadian government had taken the position that it could not with propriety respond to pressure from the United States respecting America's prohibition problem, but subsequently the Canadian government changed its policy and agreed to promote legislation desired by American prohibition officials. This legislation was passed by the Canadian House and was slated for passage through the Canadian Senate. One of the arguments in favor of speedy action was that an American Minister would be named as soon as this Canadian legislation was made effective.

There has been a delay in action by the Canadian Senate and the implied Canadian promise to meet America's desires, as unofficially expressed by dry leaders in the United States, has not yet been fulfilled. Under the circumstances, the delay in appointing an American Minister is still linked with the prohibition question in the minds of Canadian legislators.

Meanwhile, the Canadian government has virtually decided upon a successor to Vincent Massey, who has been transferred to London after conspicuously successful service as Canadian Minister here. Senator Wilfred Laurier MacDougal, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission, is slated for the American post. But his appointment is being temporarily held up to await developments.

Tariff Causes Anxiety.

Besides the prohibition problem which Canada must meet by the desired legislation there is the tariff question which is causing anxiety. An active retaliatory campaign against prospective American tariff rates has been going on in Canada. Higher duties for the United States and lower duties for Britain is the slogan of the campaign.

To what extent this pressure affected the latest Canadian tariff rates can not be accurately gauged. But, apart from the Canadian countervailing duties, the duties on steel have been raised and lowering of duties on goods from Great Britain has corresponded with higher duties on goods from America.

The continued absence of an American Minister does not mean that the American Legation has been withdrawn. But the American charge maintains a small office building, in striking contrast to the Canadian Legation maintained here. In view of the volume of trade between Canada and the United States and the importance of the relations between the two governments, it will admittedly be most unfortunate if the tariff, or the prohibition problem lead to friction. The Canadian Senate meets on May 14 and passage of the prohibition legislation will be urged as a means of meeting America's wishes and it is apparently assumed in Ottawa that such action will be followed by the appointment of a minister from the United States.

Charged with attempted housebreaking, Spencer Davis and Wilbur Beall, both colored, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday and sent back to the National Training School from which they had escaped eight hours before their arrest. Judge Robert E. Mattingly sentenced each to serve two years on the charge and suspended the sentence.

Policeman Frank J. Knoble, of the Eighth Precinct, testified that he apprehended the boys in the act of breaking into a store at 1948 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Investigation, he declared, revealed that the two Negroes had escaped from the training school at 7 o'clock Thursday night. Davis and Beall were sent to the training school several months ago to serve four years and three years respectively.

ARREST INJUNCTION DENIED AL CAPONE

Judge Refuses to Enjoin Miami Officials; Ralph Held in Chicago.

DENIES AIR SMUGGLING

Miami, Fla., May 9 (A.P.).—Orders of Miami city officials for the arrest of "Scarface" Al Capone whenever he is found within the city limits remained in effect tonight with the refusal of Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter to take jurisdiction on a petition of the Chicago racketeer's attorney for a temporary injunction forbidding his arrest without a warrant.

Judge Ritter, two weeks ago, made permanent a temporary injunction restraining twenty Florida sheriffs from arresting Capone without a warrant, but he explained today that the injunction was issued because it appealed to him as an interstate matter. His refusal to take jurisdiction today, he said in court, would stand until such time as he found that State courts had refused to accord Capone the protection and privileges granted by State and Federal constitutions.

Capone was not present at the hearing, being represented by counsel.

Warning Is Investigated.

During the day, officials investigated the report made last night by Albert P. Hinson, brother-in-law of City Manager Frank H. Wharton, that he had been attacked by men who warned him and Wharton to leave Miami.

Frank Gallat, well known Miamian, was at liberty today after being similarly detained at the police station last night for questioning in regard to his relations with Capone. He was released by Director of Public Safety S. D. McCreary.

The day's proceedings brought Capone's name into court records here for the fourth time since he arrived at his Palm Island residence at Miami Beach, April 20.

Chicago Adds a Chapter.

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Another irksome chapter was jotted down today in the family diary of the Capone tribe.

Ralph Capone flitted in and out of the Federal Building, leaving $5,000 bond behind and noting in his date book an engagement to see a Federal commissioner May 23 about a charge of liquor conspiracy resulting from raids on two Cicero night clubs.

During the fleeting visit he denied proprietorship of any airplane smuggling Canadian whisky into the Chicago region. Federal officials said they had no evidence of the bootleg airway reported to have been in operation between here and Detroit.

DEMOCRATIC ATTACK DRAWS FIRE OF DAVIS

Secretary of Labor Defends Administration Work in Recent Crisis.

HOOVER ACTION PRAISED

(Associated Press.)

A defense of the work of the administration during the recent economic crisis was made yesterday by Secretary Davis in a statement charging that the criticism yesterday by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic leader, had been "strictly political" in purpose.

Mr. Davis said industrial situations like those of the present are "too vital and too serious to our people to be made the subject of political controversy."

"Every statement issued from the Bureau of Labor statistics was computed on accurate information given by more than 12,000 manufacturing establishments throughout the country," the Secretary continued, "and each statement issued by each manufacturer was a statement of the exact number of employes on his pay roll."

The same methods of estimating employment conditions have been followed for many years and proved correct, he added, predicting that the accounting of employment in recent months will be proved as accurate as any prior returns.

"Let me state here that had it not been for the action of President Hoover in calling in representatives in finance and industry, agriculture and labor last fall after the deplorable crisis in the stock market," the Secretary concluded, "and the action taken by those representatives, our country would have experienced a still more serious unemployment crisis.

"The outstanding feature of these conferences was that there should be no decrease of wages during the emergency. This is the first time in history that an understanding of this kind was reached, and no one would deny that it has had a tremendous effect upon the stabilization of employment."

He referred to a Labor Department canvass of opinion of the governors of all of the States, made by wire during March, in the endeavor to ascertain views on the general conditions in their States. He expressed the belief that "the encouraging statements received by the department from the governors of nearly all the States, Republican and Democratic alike, in response to these telegrams, reflected their honest judgment."

SENATE WOULD CUT WATER RATE JUMP

VOTE ON BILL MONDAY

A new water rate, a survey of the city's power needs, and continuance in office of the city's oldest employe were voted by the Senate yesterday, as it continued consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The Senate also approved a $60,000 item for combating mosquitoes here, and in doing so brought to a close one of the funniest debates the galleries have ever heard.

As it passed the House, the bill carried a total of $45,333,117. As reported out by the Senate, it carried a total of $43,910,855. The House provided for a Federal contribution of $9,000,000; the Senate for a Federal contribution of $12,000,000.

It had been planned to pass the bill yesterday, but so much time was taken up on the mosquito item and the provision for a power survey, that it was decided to let the measure go over to Monday.

When the gavel fell, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, was poised for an attack on the $300,000 appropriation for a farmers produce market in Southwest Washington. He feels that this appropriation is a waste of the taxpayers' money, and he is prepared to say so Monday. He will be answered by Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia.

Howell Seeks New Water Rate.

The new water rate is provided in an amendment offered by Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), of Nebraska; the motion to put back into the bill a House provision for a power survey was led by Senator George Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, and the rider to save the services of Dr. William Tindall was offered by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee.

The House provided for increased water rates, all along the line, but when the bill reached the Senate appropriations committee, these were stricken out. Yesterday Senator Howell offered a new schedule of rates, higher than the present rates and yet not as high as the House rates, and also suggested an entirely new taxation scheme—a fire-hydrant tax.

The Howell compromise rate follows:

For unmetered service, $8.09, instead of the House rate of $9.85; for metered service, $7.13, instead of $8.75; for business places not required to install meters, an increase of 15 per cent, instead of 40 per cent as provided by the House.

Fire Hydrant Tax Sought.

Senator Howell, who used to be the engineer in charge of a Nebraska water works, then provides for a fire hydrant tax, this to be calculated on the basis of $46 for every hydrant. Such a tax, the Nebraskan figures, would raise a sum of $234,600, which would be regarded as a property tax and would be placed to the credit of the Water Department.

Senator Howell feels that the Water Department performs two functions, the supplying of water directly to the consumers, and the supplying of water for fire-fighting purposes. And he thinks that the property owners should pay for this latter service, and thus help raise the revenue that is now needed by the Water Department.

The Norris amendment to put back into the bill the House provision for a $25,000 survey to determine the city's power needs precipitated the hardest fight of the day, and was not settled until a roll call had been taken.

In this, 30 voted for the Norris amendment and 19 voted against it.

Wants Power From River.

Senator Norris has been advocating the harnessing of the Potomac for 20 years or more. He is convinced that if this were done—under the auspices of the Federal Government, of course—the result would be cheaper electric rates here. A survey, the senator feels, would show this.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, who is in charge of the bill, explained that his committee had thrown out the power provision because there seemed no justification for it. The House committee, he said, had inserted it although neither the Commissioners nor the Budget Bureau had recommended it.

Moreover, Senator Bingham said, William F. Ham, head of the Potomac Electric Power Co., had testified that the rates here were lower than in any other city in this region.

His Motion Is Carried.

This statement aroused Senator Norris' wrath. What else could the head of a power monopoly here be expected to say, he demanded. A moment later, he asked for a roll call and his motion was carried.

Contrary to expectations, the amendment of Senator McKellar, authorizing the Commissioners to extend the service of Dr. Tindall, was adopted without a voice being raised against it.

The Tennessee senator explained that Dr. Tindall, now serving his sixty-first year in the District government, would be automatically retired unless Congress made an exception of his case. And in the entire country, he said, he knew of no man who was more entitled to be excepted.

Voiced Dr. Tindall's Service.

He traced Dr. Tindall's service in the local government, and then told of his heroic conduct in the War Between the States. The veterans of that war are fast disappearing, he said, and the least a government can do is to make their last days happy. In the case of Dr. Tindall, he said, nothing would make him more happy than to be allowed to die in harness.

The Senate passed a bill authorizing an extension of Dr. Tindall's service, but Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, announced that he would block it. It was then that Senator McKellar agreed to tack it onto the appropriations bill.

The debate on the $60,000 mosquito item, which had been marked by satire and sarcasm throughout, ended on a serious note, sounded by a physician—Senator Hatfield (Republican), of West Virginia.

Fears Malaria Epidemic.

"If these mosquitoes are allowed to go unmolested," Senator Hatfield warned, "the result may be an epidemic of malaria."

Senator Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, urged that the $60,000 be used to stamp out crime in Chinatown, "that hell hole of iniquity, three blocks from the Capitol." Manhood and womanhood, he said, were being destroyed in the Oriental colony, and he thought that the prevention of these outrages was far more important than fighting a few mosquitoes.

When the Senate convened yesterday, there was a loud buzzing on the Democratic side of the chamber. It was Senator Carter Glass (Democrat) of Virginia, tuning up for another crack at the mosquito item.

Calls Appropriation Preposterous.

"This apropriation," he drawled, "is preposterous. It appears that attaches of the White House found some mosquitoes in the bushes and assembled a council of war to combat them, including the health officer, the superintendent of public buildings and parks and other high officials."

Senator Glass said he had never seen a mosquito here, much less felt a bite from one.

The Virginian particularly objected to a clause in the appropriation bill providing that part of the $60,000 be used for the purchase of automobiles. These would be used by the health officers to visit the breeding places of the mosquitoes and spray them with oil.

Cruising Range Given by Senators.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, declared that mosquitoes never traveled more than 300 yards from where they were born. Senator Glass replied that, under the terms of the appropriation bill, they would be placed in automobiles and taken for a ride.

Senator Bingham appealed for approval of the $60,000 item. While there may be some persons here who are never bothered by mosquitoes, he said, there are thousands of others who are made miserable by them.

Then came Senator Hatfield's plea, and the approval of the appropriation.

Two Sewer Contracts Awarded.

Contract for the construction of Michigan Park service sewer was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to the M. Cain Co., Inc., for $2,136.50. Thomas N. Delashmutt was awarded a contract for the construction of the Glover Parkway and Forty-fourth street service sewer for $3,277.35. Each was the lowest bidder.

BRITISH LION BARES TEETH IN INDIA RIOT

Warning Planes Dispatched and 226,000 Troops Await Call.

SEVERAL ARRESTS MADE

Bombay, India, May 9 (A.P.).—The British lion showed its teeth today to the unruly followers of Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign.

While 40 airplanes were dispatched on a warning flight over the Peshawar district, where restive natives were suspected of preparing for a raid, the home government took occasion to announce that Great Britain has 226,000 troops ready to answer a call to arms in India.

The semiofficial totals of yesterday's Sholapur casualties rested at 20 dead and upward of 100 wounded. The outstanding fact of the clash was the burning by natives of several police, bound together and soaked in oil, and made into a torch to illuminate the terror-ridden night.

Wounded Are Spared.

Apparently the natives burned only dead officers, sparing the wounded. Accounts of the injured ranged from 60 to 400, the latter figures being supplied by horrified wives of police officials who reached Bombay in a special refugees' train under armed guard in the night.

As a first step toward tightening up on the activities of the National Congress the district committee at Kohat was declared unlawful, placing it on the basis of Peshawar.

At the same time arrests at several points indicated a gesture toward rounding up some of the more important congress leaders. At Lahore Dr. Gopichand, general secretary of the All-Indian body, was seized on a charge of sedition.

Machine Guns Not Used.

The fact that in none of the rioting had machine guns been brought into play was made evident, local authorities pointed out this afternoon. The police who have engaged Indian mobs thus far have had instructions, it was said, to use first their staves and then guns loaded with buckshot. It was intimated that if these measures should prove ineffective, more severe methods would be employed.

The statement of Wedgewood Benn, secretary for India, of the government's confident attitude, were received here with interest and hopefulness. The secretary declared again today that Britain was fully able to meet and handle any situation which might arise.

Salt Raid Planned Anew.

Abbas Tyabji, retired high court judge of the native state of Baroda, who has taken Mahatma Ghandi's place as active leader of the civil disobedience campaign in the field, announced he would march on Monday morning from Karadi Matvad to Dharasana, where on Thursday he will attempt to raid salt deposits managed by the government.

He will arrive with some 300 volunteers at Dharasana on Wednesday evening and attack the deposits the next day. This is the move Gandhi threatened shortly before his arrest. It marks an important extension of the campaign against the salt monopoly, the volunteers having hitherto confined themselves chiefly to manufacturing salt themselves.

Speaking at Surat today, V. J. Patel, resigned head of the Indian legislative assembly, suggested making this raid nationally symbolic for all India.

PROTOCOL LAUNCHES YOUNG AGREEMENT

Ambassadors of Five Nations Sign Reparations Plan After Paris Tea.

BANK WILL START WORK

Paris May 9 (A.P.).—The Young plan for payment of reparations, reducing Germany's obligations for damages caused during the World War from something like $25,000,000,000 to about $9,000,000,000, went into effect this afternoon.

A protocol registering the decisions of The Hague conference, which adopted the plan January 20 was signed by the ambasasdors of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and the French minister of foreign affairs after a tea served by the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand.

The signing was made possible by arrival today of necessary ratification papers from Great Britain and Italy. Ratification by Germany and four creditor nations was required, and ratification documents already had been deposited by Germany, France and Belgium.

Reparations Commission Goes.

The first consequence of this act, which modifies for a second time the reparations machinery provided by the Versailles treaty, will be the disappearance of the reparations commission, which, in cooperation with other bodies, has taken charge of payments under the Dawes plan and supervision by Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations.

The second will be the beginning of functioning by the Bank for International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland, under the presidency of Gates W. McGarrah, of New York.

The third will be the issuance of $300,000,000 in reparations bonds, two-thirds of that going to creditor nations and the other third to Germany for internal requirements.

Succeeds Dawes Plan.

The Young plan succeeds the Dawes plan in liquidating the financial obstacles growing out of the World War.

It transfers the reparations problem from the sphere of diplomacy to the realm of economics, and enables creditor and debtor alike to cooperate.

It also scales down the total reparations to be paid by Germany. The enormous claims presented at the peace conference totaling $100,000,000,000, are cut to a trifle under $9,000,000,000 and that is payable in 59 years.

The sanctions, which were authorized by the Treaty of Versailles in the event Germany defaulted have been abolished, with the Court of International Justice taking the burden of deciding when the debtor nation is in default. That is interpreted as putting an end to the possibility of any further military occupation of the Rhineland.

New machinery for the collection of reparations has been provided in the form of the bank for international settlements, which now is planning its first loan of $300,000,000.

Alleged Seller of Race Tips Arrested by Police

A man who is said by police to have been selling false race tips on a large scale in Washington for the past few months was arrested early yesterday morning in a raid conducted by Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman, leader of the police vice squad, in the National Press Building.

Maurice Millstone, 38 years old, living on Nineteenth street, near Irving street northwest, was charged with false pretenses growing out of his alleged misleading tips, which were based on nothing more than his own personal "hunches," according to the police. Four persons in the offices when the police entered were held under $100 bond as Government witnesses. One of these was Millstone's secretary.

Slot Machine Slug Ban Urged.

Enactment of the pending bill prohibiting the manufacture, sale or use of metal slugs for use in slot machines or telephones was recommended by the District Commissioners yesterday in a letter to the House District committee. The bill had the indorsement of United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover, to whom the Commissioners submitted it for an opinion.

SCHOOLS SUPPLANT PARENTS, IS CLAIM

Teachers Now Have Leading Part in Shaping Child, Expert Asserts.

HANDICAPS POINTED OUT

Schools are supplanting the family and the church as the dominant forces in shaping a child's personality. This assertion yesterday by V. T. Thayer, of the Ethical Culture School, of New York, is a crystallization of the subjects before the International Congress on Mental Hygiene, in a session which aired the problems of the married teacher and the relation of the child to home and school life.

From the modern labor saving devices and easy methods of transportation, Mr. Thayer said, has come a steady disintegration of family bonds and constructive family life. As a consequence, he pointed out, the schools are now the places of the social development of the child.

"This situation has given rise to the necessity on the part of teachers for a sympathetic insight into the problems which parents face under prevailing conditions of home life, he declared, adding that the teachers are handicapped in this respect by the limited cultural advantages they have received.

Punish Rather Than Treat.

One of the difficulties seen by Dr H. E. Chamberlain, of the Child Guidance Clinic, of Minneapolis, in respect to teacher and child relationships, is the decision by teachers to punish the child rather than treat him. They recognize, he said, psychiatry as helpful in the case of the mentally ill, but if the disturbing child is apt to be normal, it is apt to be viewed by them as impractical.

One of the mental hygiene aspects of teaching, as seen by W. Carson Ryan, jr., of Swarthmore College, is the vital question of the married teacher. He viewed the marked tendency to eliminate married women from schools as a denial to the children of those who are adjusted in life. The present policy against the married woman teacher can not be defended in a program that has mental hygiene as one of his goals, he avowed.

Clinic works in child guidance find their greatest energy devoted to the preschool child and his parent, Dr. George S. Stevenson told the congress. Major contributions to the behavior problems of childhood, he said, are parental ignorance and early habits.

Parents' Problems of Two Classes.

Problems involving parenthood, in the opinion of Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, fall into two broad categories. One is the parents in relation to each other and to their children. The other is the problem presented by the children as they grow.

Dr. Lowrey made a plea for the awakening of parents to the importance in the environment of the child. He pointed out an obvious need for rational reconstruction of attitudes in parents. In furtherance of this argument he declared that parents are most concerned about the problems of the present instead of the future behavior of the child.

The cause of this condition, he said, is that parents find it easier to take a negative stand in objecting to various behavior manifestations than to take a positive stand encouraging the development of desirable traits.

through many of the Western States on the most extensive tour any Chief Executive has taken since President Harding visited Alaska.

Leaving Washington, tentative plans would take him through Minneapolis and St. Paul to his first extended stop at Glacier Park, Mont., where he can indulge his love of fishing.

The President has been informed by the national park service, officials of which urged him to make the trip, that adequate accommodations are available in Glacier Park for the sizable party which would accompany him and a week probably would be spent there.

Yellowstone is in Wyoming and Montana; Estes in Colorado; Yosemite in California, and Grand Canyon in Arizona.

Three other brief trips are now on the tentative program of the President during the next six months.

A review of the battle and scouting fleets off the Virginia Capes on May 20 is being considered. On May 30 the President is to speak at Gettysburg on the anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, and he has conditionally accepted an invitation to visit Boston during October in connection with the American Legion and the tercentenary celebration of the founding of Boston Bay colony.

NEW IDEAS PLANNED FOR COURT BUILDING

Construction of Structure in Montgomery Will Be Begun in July.

MINOR GRANTED DIVORCE

Montgomery County's impressive new courthouse probably will be under construction by early July, Delos H. Smith and Thomas R. Edwards, architects, announced to the subcommittee which is acting for the Montgomery County general courthouse building committee in supervising the various steps necessary to the completion of the building.

The subcommittee, headed by Capt. Chester Wells, has been empowered to act in the name of the general committee save in major changes of plans. The subcommittee met yesterday in the courthouse at Rockville to discuss the progress of the work of drawing the completed plans.

The plans so far advanced have been approved by the Fine Arts Commission and are in such shape that the architects expect to present the completed plans to the building committee about the first of June. Many advanced ideas are embodied in the plans which are calculated to increase the efficiency of the courthouse.

The architects are now working out a special decorative scheme which will express through the mosaic art the natural beauties and advantages of Montgomery County.

Among the details approved by the subcommittee yesterday was the provision of two flagpoles in the front of the courthouse, from one of which will float the national colors and the State flag from the other. Stone benches will be placed on the coping around the building.

George A. Lewis, of Bethesda, Md., yesterday filed suit in Rockville Circuit Court for absolute divorce from Mrs. Madge P. Lewis, of Philadelphia, Pa., alleging desertion. Through Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, the husband tells the court that the marriage took place November 2, 1904, at Philadelphia, and that there are no children.

Absolute divorce was granted Mrs. Mary E. Snure, jr., a minor, of Washington, from John Snure, jr., of Montgomery County, by Judge Robert B. Peter in Rockville Circuit Court on the grounds of desertion. The suit for divorce was filed by the girl's father, John W. Fenton, through Attorney Thomas M. Anderson, of Rockville.

The Montgomery County Civic Federation will hold its last meeting of the season Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Rockville High School, it was announced by O. M. Kile, corresponding secretary.

Since this is the last meeting, President Stephen James has asked the various committees to make an effort to clear their calendars of pending matters as much as possible. One of the important features of the evening will be the report of the legislative and legal action committee on the county charter board plan proposed by Delegate George Lamar, of Rockville. Emory Bogley, chairman of the committee in charge of the Federation's good will tour and dinner, May 16, at which Gov. Ritchie and prominent Maryland and District officials will be present, also will report.

TEXAS MOB BURNS MAN IN COURTHOUSE

equipped with tear gas bombs. Nearby cities sent squads of peace officers.

Instructed not to fire on the rioters the officers defending the courthouse, nevertheless, stood off the mob until driven out by the flames.

Ranger Capt. Frank Hamer announced he had been ordered by Gov. Dan Moody:

"Hold them if you can, but don't shoot anybody."

Four rangers were on duty at the courthouse upon instructions from Gov. Moody who feared that trouble might result when the Negro was brought into court for trial today. Hughes pleaded guilty to the assault last Saturday. Following the Negro's arrest an attempt was made to lynch him, but officers outwitted the mob by removing Hughes to another jail.

A crowd formed before noon today and many gained access to the courthouse. Some more bold than others took the leadership and made a rush for the prisoner.

Rushed Into Vault.

The rangers fought back the crowd, assisted by other officers, and rushed the Negro into a vault in the county attorney's office. Tear gas bombs were hurled, and firemen rushed to the scene to assist the peace officers. After considerable fighting, the building was cleared.

Gathering more force on the courthouse lawn and in the surrounding streets, the mob made another determined attack, but was repulsed by the fumes from bombs thrown into its midst.

A third rush at the doors was beaten back. This time members of the mob placed several charges of explosive against the walls. Officers extinguished the fuses before any damage resulted.

On the fourth charge several leaders threw ten gallons of gasoline into the basement on the east side under the room in which the Negro was imprisoned. A match was touched to the gasoline and soon the building was a mass of flames.

Firemen could offer little resistance to the blaze as the mob cut the hose lines. When the structure was doomed, officers defending the courthouse were forced to flee, leaving the Negro to his fate.

Widow and Children Ask Change of Name

Margaret C. Neuhs and her children, Karl Henry Neuhs and Margaret Charlotte Neuhs, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to change their surname to Noyes.

The petitioners, through Attorney Ralph A. Cusick, tell the court that the pronunciation of their present name is difficult, inconvenient and embarrassing because of the fact that it is so often mispronounced. They state that the correct pronunciation is the same as Noyes and that the change in spelling will be more convenient and practical. Mrs. Neuhs is a widow and the children are minors.

Object From Buliding Injures Maryland Man

While walking alongside the new building at North Capitol and G streets northwest, Harry Holland, 52 years old, of Towson, Md., was struck on the head by a small object which fell from the ninth floor of the building.

He was removed to Emergency Hospital, where he was found to have suffered a fracture of the skull, and lacerations about the head and hands.

JOHN MASEFIELD APPOINTED ENGLAND'S POET LAUREATE

living, now as a deckhand on a windjammer, again as a farm hand and for a time by polishing brass and sweeping floors in a Greenwich Village saloon, today was appointed by King George poet laureate of England, in succession to the late scholarly Dr. Robert Bridges.

Surprised by Honor.

Though his name has been much mentioned here as a possible recipient of the honor bestowed in days past upon Ben Jonson, Dryden, and Tennyson, the appointment came as a complete surprise to him, Masefield said tonight in an interview at his home near Oxford.

Asked if he would try to celebrate events of national importance in appropriate verse the 55-year-old poet laureate replied:

"I can only write if I am strongly moved by emotional matter!"

The British press, in acclaiming Masefield's appointment, points out that he has celebrated both in verse and prose many traditional aspects of English life, singing the glory of Britannia's merchant marine and such sports as fox-hunting and steeplechasing.

Sea Chanties Won Success.

After sailing the seven seas before the mast, sweating in the cookhouse of many a tramp steamer and working at all sorts of lowly tasks when he was "On the Beach," Masefield returned to England and began slaving for long years at literary hackwork. His first success came when he turned to literary advantage his experiences at sea.

JOHN MASEFIELD.

When Granville Barker sadly needed some sea chanties for his production of Bernard Shaw's "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," he was saved at the last minute by a young deckhand who during watches on the fo'c'sle head had composed sea songs and music for them.

The Masefield of today is known as the author of many novels and plays as well as of poetry. In the garden of his home at Boars Hill he has a private theater which he intends to become the home of poetic drama.

Limited Divorce Given Wife on Desertion Plea

Mrs. Irene Myrtle Humphries, who unsuccessfully sought to have her husband, Walter Humphries, restrained from prosecuting a divorce action against her in Arlington County, Va., yesterday was awarded a decree of limited divorce by Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court. Desertion was the ground on which the decree was predicated.

Mrs. Humphries, who was represented by Attorneys Raymond Neudecker and William C. Ashford, asserted that her husband left their home on September 13, 1926, and never has returned. The wife is awarded permanent alimony under the decree. The couple was married in 1919 at Fredericksburg, Va.

Surveying Work Begun For New Viaduct Site

Sureying was begun yesterday by Melvin Hazen, District surveyor, for the proposed viaduct which will carry vehicular and pedestrian traffic over the Metropolitan Branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and eliminate the existing grade crossing at Michigan avenue.

The location of the viaduct will be determined as a result of the survey. One proposal is to widen the Monroe street viaduct and curve traffic on to Michigan avenue east of the railroad track. This would necessitate acquisition of properties which are improved. Another proposal is to build a viaduct at Michigan avenue. The objection to this plan is said to lie in the fact that the avenue grade is downhill and curving.

Wife Granted Divorce; Corespondent Named

Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court yesterday granted Mrs. Julia Swink, of Third street northeast, near A street, an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from Edward B. Swink, a real estate operator, residing on A street northeast, near Sixth street. A woman, said to operate a beauty parlor on East Capitol street, near Thirteenth street, was named as corespondent.

Allegation was made that Mr. Swink was divorced by a former wife and that he had hidden his real estate holdings in the name of his daughter by the former wife. Attorney Vivian O. Hill appeared for the wife, while Mr. Swink was represented by Attorney E. Russell Kelly. Attorney Needham C. Turnage appeared for the corespondent.

$14 Holdup Reported To Police by Milkman

Harry E. Burns, living at 200 First street southwest, reported to police that while delivering milk about 3 o'clock yesterday morning he was held up and robbed by two colored men of about $14.

He was passing an alley near N and Morgan streets northwest, he said, when a colored man approached his wagon and asked for a quart of milk. The milkman was given a $1 bill, and while making change the robber told him to give him all the money he had. Another man was parked in a car nearby waiting for the hold-up man, and they both drove away at a rapid speed. Police have a description of both the men and the car, and say that an arrest is imminent.

UNIVERSITY CADETS AWARDED MEDALS

Annual Drill at College Park Results in Honors to Washington Boys.

PYROMANIAC IS SOUGHT

Company A, Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit of the University of Maryland, yesterday captured the Governor Ritchie Cup at the annual company drill at College Park. Capt. Eugene Roberts, of Washington, commander of the winning company, was awarded the University of Maryland saber. The Alumni Cup for the best drilled platoon was won by the first platoon of Company D, commanded by Robert W. Lockbridge, of Edmonston, Md.

Corpl. Theodore Bishoff, of Washington, was the winner of the class of 1899 gold medal for the best drilled student. Ten students from each of the six companies took part in this competition. The Sam Browne belt given by the military department for the student who had done the most for the department throughout the year was awarded to Cadet Lieut. Col. William J. Kinnamon, of Easton, Md., the ranking student officer. The Third Corps Area Silver and Bronze Medals for gallery shooting were won by Willis T. Frazier and Morton Silverberg, both of Washington.

Cadet commissions were awarded as follows: William J. Kinnamon, Graef W. Buehm, James D. DeMarr, Luther Harper, William H. Heintz, Philip A. Insley, Melvin Koons, Foster E. Lipphard, Robert W. Lockridge, William L. Lucas, J. Donald Nevius, John T. O'Neill, E. J. Roberts, W. W. Siddall and John N. Umbarger.

Dr. Raymond Allen Pearson, president of the university, presented the awards at a regimental review at which he was assisted by Maj. Robert S. Lytle, head of the department of military science and tactics.

Prince Georges County police are looking for a firebug in and near Seat Pleasant as the result of the third early morning fire in the town apparently of incendiary origin.

Damage of $750 was done to the vacant house owned by Mrs. R. Taylor, on Grove street, which burned about 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The flames appeared to be following a train of oil and the fire bore other evidences of having been ignited by a pyromaniac. A fire which destroyed merchandise and lumber, valued at nearly $200,000, in the store of F. L. Watkins last Saturday bore similar earmarks.

Four volunteer departments from Maryland and one District company responded to the alarm. County Policeman Frank Prince is conducting the investigation. He said yesterday that it is feared other fires may result if the guilty person is not captured.

Estranged Wife Slain In Quarrel With Mate

Marion Carter, 34-year-old colored woman, living on B street, near Thirteenth street northeast, early yesterday was fatally shot, and her husband, William Carter, 40 years old, of Tenth street, near P street northwest, was charged with murder.

Police say that the shooting followed a quarrel between the two, who had been separated for more than two years.

Don't Break Law, Says Sheriff, as Jail Is Full

Winchester, Va., May 9.—The citizenry of Winchester and Frederick County is urged by Sheriff Pannett to refrain from violating any of the State or local criminal laws whereby they may be sentenced to jail terms, for the reason the sherrif has no room for them. He regards this as the only practical solution at present for badly congested conditions in the local prison. The sheriff said that if any more people are sentenced to jail he will not know what to do with them.

Prisoners are sleeping on floor cots and in hammocks swung from cell bars to windows and it has been found necessary to place many in the corridors.

Nearly all of the prisoners were sent up for violations of the liquor laws.

WORLD WAR SOLDIER SOUGHT IN SLAYING

Veteran Traced to Distant City as Baker Murder Hunt Goes On.

WOMAN'S ALIBI CHECKED

Authorities have traced to a distant city a World War veteran whom they are anxious to question regarding his whereabouts on the night that Mary Baker was murdered.

While a woman has been located who told police that she was with the suspect on the night of the slaying, authorities are still anxious to question him. Although police have no evidence that the man may be implicated, Inspector William S. Shelby admits that he is now the only logical suspect.

Three characteristics of the suspect are the only ties which police think may link him to the murder case. Inspector Shelby says that the suspect is a thief, is possessed of an ungovernable temper, and is known to have attempted to assault a girl.

He left town last Saturday. An autoist was located by police who gave a description of a man to whom he had given a lift to an out-of town destination.

Whether the man was acquainted with Miss Baker has not been determined, although he is alleged to have asserted that he was a friend of the girl. He was arrested on April 15 on a larceny charge in Arlington County. The accusation was nolle prossed.

men on them, and the Virginia authorities have no right there.

All this was explained to the subcommittee yesterday by three witnesses—William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County and a leading figure in the investigation of the Baker murder; Col. U. S. Grant 3d, who is in command of the Federal Park Police, and Col. R. Smith, of the judge advocate general's office.

Mr. Gloth told the subcommittee that there is a pressing need for the policing of the Federal, or military roads. Questioned as to what would be done to prisoners taken on the road, he said that they could be tried in the Federal Court at Alexandria.

Col. Grant declared that the roads could be policed by simply adding four men to his park force—a sergeant and four privates.

In a letter to the military affairs committee several months ago, Secretary of War Hurley declared that "necking parties" had brought about a condition near the cemetery that was disgraceful, and he urged early approval of the Moore bill. The subcommittee probably will make a favorable report on it in a few days.

RED INVESTIGATION PLANNED IN HOUSE which he said were incited under "the communistic program of violence."

He strongly recommended that an "adequate deportation law" be enacted which would result in a speedy hearing and immediate deportation of the aliens unlawfully in this country. The police investigation thus far, he continued, "has indicated that many of the active participants in these communistic strikes have been aliens whose right to remain in this country could not be established."

Mr. Whalen also recommended that the committee investigate visas to nonquota aliens to determine whether application statements were correct and whether the time granted has been extended.

Chairman Johnson said the starting point of any new deportation legislation would be the provision of additional immigration inspectors to cooperate with police in checking alien activities.

He added that there are now between 700 and 1,000 Communist agitators ready for deportation who can not be deported in absence of diplomatic relations with Russia. About 16,000 persons, he added, would be deported this year.

lower by two years the age at which an employe may retire and receive the full benefits.

The House passed the new bill on March 4, after tacking it onto the title of the old Dale bill. This was done so that it would be unnecessary for the bill to be passed by the Senate. House and Senate conferees held only one meeting, and that broke up in a deadlock. Now, as has been stated, this is about to be broken and another meeting held.

Man Given Six Months For Stealing From Car

Andrew Brown, colored, was given a six-month sentence in Police Court yesterday on a charge of larceny in connection with the theft of a book and some blueprints.

Brown, who said he had been employed in an Atlantic City hotel for seven years, told the court he was hiking to his home in Lynchburg, Va., when arrested. He said he found the trip very tedious and that he picked the book and prints out of a parked automobile in the hope that they would enliven his walk. He declared he was arrested before he had time to even read the title of the book.

The woman was crossing from the safety zone to the curb on the west side of Connecticut avenue, between Macomb street and Newark street northwest, when she was struck.

M'BRIDE'S CLAIM DRY LEAGUE IS "BORN OF GOD" CAUSES SPAT

Him and will fight on while He leads, and the only thing that stands forth in this progressive age is that those things that are in the way of the progress of the Kingdom of God must get out of the way."

"My own view," Senator Blaine retorted, "is that I do not think God would approve of some of your practices, and I think it is unfortunate for the moral forces of this country that an organization of the type of the Antisaloon League should claim that its origin came from God Almighty."

Mr. McBride, who appeared for the second day, testified that the organization had not evaded the Federal corrupt practices act which requires reports to be made to Congress concerning political expenditures.

"We have done our level best to conform to the Federal corrupt practices act from the beginning," he asserted. "We were the first organization that did that."

He added that in 1928 the national and State organizations of the Antisaloon League had reported expenditures of $178,000, of which $100,000 was for the national league. He repeated that the league's political activities represented only about 5 per cent of the total.

Fooling No One, Says Blaine.

Senator Blaine then read from a speech by Mr. McBride which said that about 90 per cent of the league's activities "cluster about elections."

"They do cluster about elections," Mr. McBride replied. "That means it has a close relationship. It does not mean it was election work."

"You are very excellent in the choice of language," Senator Blaine commented, "but I don't believe you are fooling any one."

Mr. McBride testified that he thought the organization had furnished information to Government officials concerning prohibition appointments, but he said he was unable to give any specific instances. Pressed by Senator Blaine, he explained that the information probably was given in personal interviews or by telephone.

Accused of Suppressing Fact.

"I do not recall any specific case, but in a general way I would say that it had been done."

"That's a convenient way to suppress a fact," Senator Blaine retorted.

After the witness had stated that the league had been "born of God," Senator Blaine asked:

"Then you sort of regard your organization as the son of God?"

"No," Mr. McBride replied. "I said the league was born of God."

"And that your league has been specially delegated by God to carry on His work here on earth?"

"No, I didn't say that. I would not claim as much as that."

"You claim a good deal."

"I don't hesitate to claim that the league was born of God," Mr. McBride said. "It began in a prayer meeting in Oberlin, Ohio."

"Did you have any message from God to the effect that He gave birth to this organization?"

"No."

"What gave you the conception that God gave birth to the Antisaloon League?"

"The fact that it was born in a prayer meeting and that the organization has been a religious organization down through the years. We seldom have a convention without opening with devotional exercises. We never have a meeting of our national executive committee without the devotions. We are led by the leadership of God."

The exchange was ended when Chairman Caraway and Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, insisted that the questioning had nothing to do with lobbying. The committee adjourned until Tuesday, when Mr. McBride will resume his testimony.

FORMAL CHARGES ARE FILED AGAINST CANNON AT DALLAS

Ga., who mailed them to the conference secretary. Mr. Smith promised to be here himself next week to press them before the episcopacy committee to which they were referred. The exact charges were not made public, and it is unlikely that they will since meetings of the committee are executive and all members are sworn to secrecy.

Mr. Smith, soon after the last presidential campaign, wrote a book called "The Four Horsemen of Methodism," in which Bishop Cannon was called "Pope Cannon" and four bishops, including the other three charged, were "The Four Horsemen."

One conference delegate who had read the charges indicated that the worst allegation in them was to the effect that the four bishops named voted for Herbert Hoover for President, and urged their friends to do likewise. It was also said that some of the bishops had not accounted for "funds spent" in the campaign, and that the charges against Bishop Cannon were reputed to refer to alleged stock market activities.

Dubose Is Unconcerned.

Bishop Dubose replied that as a matter of course the administration of every bishop was put before the committee on Episcopacy every four years. He said:

"I can not anticipate the action of the committee. I respectfully await its investigation of the allegations and its report. I am, however, in no wise concerned as to the result.

"The most serious view that can possibly be taken of the charges is that the actions alleged were the commonplace of citizenship rights and privilege under the law. I simply exercised my right to vote my conviction in the presidential campaign of 1928 and urged my friends and neighbors to do the same thing. To the number of about 500,000 we voted against the wet candidate, Gov. Smith, and that was the sum of it.

Political Speeches Brief.

"Correctly speaking, I did not enter politics. I made no political speeches with the exception of brief incidental exhortations to members of my own church and other friendly gatherings. I spent no money in the campaign.

"Together with a company of associated temperance workers, I put out a plebiscite or pledge many weeks before the campaign opened, committing signers against voting for a wet candidate. These signatures, to the extent of many hundreds of thousands, were presented to the Democratic convention which met in Houston. I regard that as my most nearly political act.

"It appears that no attention was paid by the convention to these signatures, but the signers afterward paid attention to the convention, and defeated its candidate in seven Southern States. This was the head and front of all my offending. I long ago gave over in judgment to my countrymen. I now leave it to my fellow church men. I expect them to be just and frank in dealing with these charges; but as for myself, I do not indulge in a syllable of concern."

Boy Pilot Lands At Tulsa Airport

Junior Record Flier Falls Three Hours Behind His Schedule.

Tulsa, Okla., May 9 (A.P.).—Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old aviator, flying from Los Angeles to New York in quest of a new West-East transcontinental record for junior fliers, landed at the Tulsa Municipal Airport at 6:15 o'clock tonight. He planned to spend the night here and continue his flight tomorrow.

The youthful flier was more than three hours behind schedule here, but was hopeful he could make up the time tomorrow. When he left El Paso, Tex., this morning, St. Louis was his goal for tonight's stop.

Goldsborough recently established a new East-West junior mark of 34 hours 3 minutes, or 13 hours 57 minutes less than the record which had been held by Dick James.

2,000 Persons Killed In Persian Earthquake

Word that 2,000 persons had been killed and 5,000 made homeless by an earthquake which occurred in Persia near Salmas, in the district of Urumia, was received at the State Department yesterday from American Vice Consul Henry S. Villard, at Teheran, Persia.

The cable stated that the City of Tabriz was shaken, but that no deaths were reported there. There were no details in the cable.

Daylight Saving Time Declined for District

The District Commissioners will not make any effort to have daylight saving time the legal time for the District in the summer months, Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer said yesterday in a letter to John W. Lainhart, of W street near Sixteenth southeast. Mr. Lainhart had urged that the Commissioners act to have daylight saving time adopted.

The question has been raised several times since the summer of 1922, the Commissioner said, but "there has been no general demand for a change. There is no unanimity of sentiment on the subject, and the Commissioners do not feel that anything could be done at this time. To make such a plan effective generally would require action by the Federal authorities or legislation by Congress.

Chinese to Face Charges Under Drug, Rum Laws

Moy Sheuck, 45-year-old Chinese, was held under $2,500 bond yesterday following arraignment on charges of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act and the National Prohibition Act. Joe Moy, 25-year-old Chinese, who was arrested with Sheuck, was held under $500 bond on the liquor charge, the narcotic charge having been dropped.

Both Sheuck and Moy demanded trial by jury when arraigned in Police Court on the liquor charge. Sheuck later pleaded not guilty to a charge of possession of narcotics before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, bond being fixed at $2,000. Both Chinese were arrested in a raid by police on the Kuo Min Herb Co. on Pennsylvania avenue northwest near Third street.

Federation of Music Clubs, the Church Music Council and the Friends of Music. Dr. H. Barrett Learned is president of the executive board of the association, which was organized to promote "better choral music in the Capital City."

This "Hour of Choral Music," offered in honor of music week, will mark the first public appearance of the festival chorus. A second appearance will take place Sunday morning, and a third program of songs will be given by the inner choir of seventeen singers May 15 at the Library of Congress before the American Federation of Arts. Dr. Alexander will conduct on all these occasions.

DR. BASS ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN HIS CELL

Dentist Held in Insurance Death Plot Disappointed by Wife's Refusal to Visit.

CONDITION IS CRITICAL

Bentonville, Ark., May 9 (A.P.).—Disheartened over receipt of a telegram from his wife saying she would not come here to visit him, Dr. Andrew J. Bass, 55, retired dentist of Columbia, Mo., slashed his wrists in an alleged suicide attempt in his cell here today. Dr. Bass is held under a first degree murder charge for the death of William R. Pearman, Columbia automobile mechanic, in an alleged $200,000 insurance swindle-murder plot.

Dr. Charles Hurley, one of two physicians called late last night, said Dr. Bass' condition is serious, with the crisis expected in the next 24 hours. Sheriff Edgar Fields said he was notified by other prisoners in the county jail of Dr. Bass' attempts to take his life. He found Bass unconscious. The former wealthy dentist was removed from his cell to a room in the jail.

Bass was arrested a month and a half ago after Pearman's body, with three bullet wounds in the head, had been found on a highway near Gravette, near here. Bass later confessed, Sheriff Fields said, that he engineered the plot to murder Pearman and collect his insurance, which had been assigned to Bass.

In a sportsman it's Fair Play

in a cigarette it's Taste

POPULARITY IN A SPORTSMAN rests first of all on fair play; in a cigarette on better taste.

CHESTERFIELD'S POPULARITY is fairly won with finer tobaccos, blended and cross-blended to give greater delicacy and richer fragrance.

IT TAKES TIME and is costly to make cigarettes the Chesterfield way, but no other way arrives so surely, so completely at what you want most . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

OWEN J. ROBERTS.

Owen J. Roberts is especially well qualified for long and valuable service to the country as a member of the United States Supreme Court. His nomination, which was made yesterday, should be promptly confirmed by the Senate. Approval of this appointment without an orgy of mudslinging would go far toward restoring public confidence in the Senate, which needs rehabilitation after the scandalous outbursts against Chief Justice Hughes and Judge Parker.

Mr. Roberts does not possess judicial experience, as Judge Parker does, but he stands at the forefront of the American bar, and his character and fairmindedness are above criticism. In the rough and tumble of legal controversy he has always impressed the bench and bar as a man capable of seeing both sides of a question.

There is some indication of opposition to Mr. Roberts because of opinions attributed to him some years ago, indicating that he is not a bone-dry prohibitionist. It would be unfortunate, indeed, if a wet-and-dry controversy should develop over his nomination. Southern Democrats who are disappointed because President Hoover did not select a nominee from the South may disguise partisan and sectional opposition to Mr. Roberts under the pretense that he is not dry enough to suit them. It is recalled that spokesmen of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment have stated that they hoped for ultimate modification of the prohibition situation by the gradual accession of "liberal" justices to the Supreme Court. If the professional drys in Congress should conclude that they can make this matter an "issue," they may combine against Mr. Roberts, in a selfish attempt to make political capital for themselves at his expense. The recent exhibitions in the Senate demonstrated only too clearly that a considerable proportion of senators will not hesitate to malign and defame an appointee whenever such injustice will work to their own advantage.

Senators who honestly favor prohibition can do good service by cooperating to prevent a fanatical assault upon Owen J. Roberts by other senators who are dry for political reasons. There is no reason to presume that Mr. Roberts would be an extremist on either side of the prohibition question if he should become an associate justice. His temperament and training are not those of a fanatic. Like John J. Parker, he could be trusted to exercise intelligence in finding what the law is, and impartiality in applying it to any case before him. This is all that fair-minded Americans ask of judges. The people are practical in weighing the qualifications of judges, and do not attach too much importance to dissection of opinions expressed by individuals who are later chosen as judges. Much weight is given to the character which a man builds up by honest living and square dealing. The public also attaches far more importance to the solemnity of the oath of office than is attached to it by some senators. When a man is elevated to the highest tribunal in the world the public expects from him "plain living and high thinking," and is rarely disappointed.

John J. Parker was sacrificed largely because of opinions expressed while he was a private citizen having nothing whatever to do with opinions he would have formed as a judge. The Senate can not indulge twice in a lynching bee and hope to escape universal reprobation.

Another honest and capable citizen has been nominated for the Supreme Court. He has the respect and confidence of the American bar. He deserves not only decent treatment by the Senate but its respect and confidence Prompt confirmation would perhaps avert an atrociously unjust assault upon him, and thus serve to reassure other citizens that they may aspire to high office without running the risk of being calumniated and besmirched by senators who are immune to prosecution for slander.

THE PROBE OF COMMUNISM.

The American people ought to know the source of communistic propaganda that is being circulated about the country. That subversive agents are at work here is not open to question. Are the enemies of the Government who are plotting its destruction in the employ of the Soviet regime in Russia, which has been denied diplomatic recognition? There are many indications that they are so employed; but the people ought to be fully informed as to the source of communistic agitation and the Government should be in a position to protect itself against this insidious attack.

The House rules committee has asked that a committee from that body be empowered to investigate communistic activities in this country. The House committee on immigration and naturalization is giving attention to the document produced by Police Commissioner Whalen, of New York, purporting to show that communistic organizations of this country are directed by the Third International in Moscow. Mr. Whalen's information may give the committee valuable leads in its inquiry, but the demand for an investigation does not rest upon the validity of this document. A sweeping probe ought to be made regardless of what the origin of this document may prove to be.

Governments that have recognized the bolshevist regime in Russia are constantly embarrassed by the double dealing and the intrigue of the Third International, which is controlled by the bolshevist dictators. China is embroiled in a war against communist bandits who are drawing the very life blood from the country. Communism is rampant through Asia and in some parts of Europe. The agitators always take advantage of economic depression to scatter their seeds of discontent and rebellion. Many people have regarded the United States as immune to the contagion of Moscow, but the wave of unemployment that has swept over the country in recent months has caused the propagandists to redouble their efforts to destroy the foundations upon which this Nation rests.

Little has been done to cope with the red agitators, except to keep their parades orderly and to prevent riots or violence. No attempt has been made to get at the root of communism, which without question extends to Moscow. No other government would be allowed to solicit disloyalty and betrayal of America within the country itself. Why should the bolshevist dictatorship be so privileged? The House ought to investigate every source of communism and to uproot the foreign agencies which are serving the cause of world revolution in America.

ALEXANDRIA'S ADVANTAGES.

The City of Alexandria offers splendid opportunities for certain types of manufacturing. Its accessibility, transportation facilities, deep water and satisfactory labor conditions have long been manifest, but these advantages have never been properly presented to manufacturers who are seeking new locations for their plants. Alexandria proposes to remedy this through a "forward movement program" in which is involved the employment of a competent industrial manager who will be given adequate funds to advertise and promote the development of the territory. The program contemplates the expenditure of $25,000 annually for a period of three years. Eighteen thousand dollars has been pledged for this year's budget by Alexandrians, and an appeal now is made to Washington business men to pledge the additional $7,000.

The "forward movement" deserves the support of Washington. The prosperity of Alexandria reflects itself in the prosperity of the District. New industries bring increased population. It has always been that a considerable part of the money that is earned in Alexandria is expended in Washington. The Capital has no place in its plan of development for the establishment of an industrial community. Alexandria, however, wants industries, and Washington, by helping her secure them, will help itself to obtain the benefits that accrue to thriving, busy, manufacturing regions.

A "forward movement" in Atlanta filled 3,000 vacant houses and 500 vacant stores, and brought to the city new businesses and industries with annual pay rolls of $7,000,000. Paterson, N. J.; Northampton, Mass.; Schenectady, N. Y., and other cities through aggressive advertising and personalized solicitation have increased materially their prosperity. The new spirit that has come into being in Alexandria and that manifests itself in the sponsorship by the chamber of commerce of the "forward movement" will result in new prosperity for this Virginia city. Washington should help the movement along by investing in it the $7,000 that is still needed.

TURNCOAT REPUBLICANS.

South Dakota voters will have the privilege of choosing between two spokesmen of democracy when they go to the polls this fall to elect a United States senator. One will be a real Democrat—Gov. Bulow—and the other will be an erstwhile Republican who "votes with the Democrats against administration policies." The latter is, of course, Senator McMaster, who won the Republican nomination this week.

What has become of the Republican party in South Dakota? The country has accustomed itself to looking for a peculiar brand of Republicanism in the Northwest. Senators from that section have the habit of being Republican on election day and political hybrids in all other seasons. But Senator McMaster has won the nomination by repudiating the party he nominally represents and opposing Republican leadership. South Dakota has virtually voted itself out of the Republican party, in spite of its reputation as a strong Republican State.

The electorate will be called upon to distinguish between the nominee who is really a Democrat and the one who votes with the Democrats. Since South Dakota is one of the few States that is still overwhelmingly rural, no doubt the voters will register their preference for the candidate who can promise the most fantastic panacea for agriculture. The devotion of Senator McMaster to the ideal of everything for the farmer and nothing for any one else has not been overlooked in the Coyote State.

Senator McMaster is the first of the insurgents to test his strength at the primary this year. But the opportunity is in store for a number of others, including Senator Norris. Will he, too, candidly tell his constituents that he no longer believes in Republican doctrine, but will stand with the Democrats in opposition to the party whose flag he betrays?

RETIREMENT BILL SHOULD PASS.

With the end of the session approaching, Government workers have become apprehensive regarding the fate that awaits the retirement bill. The Dale bill was approved earlier by the Senate and the House was ready to approve any reasonable bill that might have been reported out of committee. President Hoover, however, decided that the Dale bill would react against the best interests of the majority of Federal employes, and the Dale-Lehlbach bill was brought forward as a substitute acceptable to the President. The Dale-Lehlbach bill was approved by a substantial majority in the House, and conferees were appointed to iron out the differences between it and the Dale bill previously approved by the Senate.

Why has the conference committee failed to report out a retirement bill? Both houses of Congress are ready and anxious to act upon such legislation. It is recognized that neither the Dale nor the Dale-Lehlbach bill fully solves the difficult problem of Federal employe retirement, but an emergency unquestionably exists for the solution of which new legislation is urgently needed. In addition, new legislation is expected to serve as a basis upon which a scientific and more generally equitable retirement system can be worked out.

Congress should not again disappoint the great host of faithful Federal employes by failing to enact a bill to liberalize the retirement system. Hundreds of elderly workers remain in harness because they can not afford to retire upon the pittance they would receive under the prevailing schedules. These workers have earned the right to retire on pay that will support them. The fund, made up of installments from their own pay, is sufficient to meet the increased annuity. All that is necessary is prompt action by Congress.

POPULATION AND FOOD

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Ever since Thomas Robert Malthus put forward his then rather alarming proposition that growth in population is destined to outrun subsistence the trends of population increases throughout the world have commanded the study of experts and the interest of laymen. New data are about to be added to the equation and new fuel to the discussion. The fifteenth decennial census of the United States, the returns from which are now being tabulated, will soon disclose the status of population therein on April 1, 1930, and during the next year a similar census will be taken by the British government.

For several decades now the rate of increase in the total population of the United States has been noticeably decreasing. Thus, the population growth from 1900 to 1910 was 21 per cent, or a little more than 2 per cent per year—a growth much lower than the previous ten years recorded. From 1910 to 1920 the rate of increase dropped to 14.9 per cent, or about 1½ per cent a year, and already the estimates indicate that the present census will show the lowest increase between censuses in the experience of the United States. All of which leads numerous authorities on population questions to conclude that within 40 to 60 years the United States will reach a population equilibrium at a total which will probably vary from 150,000,000 to 175,000,000.

The trend in world population is also providing significant data. During the last century the total population of the earth has approximately doubled, and according to the latest compilations of the Permanent International Statistic Bureau at The Hague, it has just passed the 2,000,000,000 mark. Now while the eighteenth century Malthusian notion of population being held at practically starvation levels because increases were bound to outrun food supply seems extremely remote, and has indeed lost much of its academic validity in view of notable progress in invention and natural science, the congestion of population today in some parts of the Old World must challenge all humanity.

In China thousands upon thousands starve while food goes to waste in other parts of the world. In a lesser degree the masses of India have long experienced similar privations. In Japan the stringencies of overpopulation are acute and provocative of international tension. Yet in the New World the very opposite of the Malthusian thesis has demonstrated itself, and instead of population pressing upon food supply, food supply has been pressing upon population, as every farmer with his overproduction will be quick to testify.

The defiance to human intelligence which these facts and these figures present arises not from the menace of overpopulation, but from the necessity of meeting a rising population with constantly improved methods of production and distribution. There is no shortage of food for the peoples of China, but there is a shortage of transports—a shortage which will not be met by Malthusian fears, but by the courageous energies of enlightened humanity. If the generosity of unaided nature in its raw materials and food supplies is at its peak, the genius of humanity in multiplying nature's benefactions is but in its infancy.

JAPAN'S DOUBLE LIFE.

The citizen of Tokyo leads a double life, says the London Times. He clothes himself with a business suit in the morning and spends eight hours in bank or office among calculating machines, typewriters and filing systems, wrestling with problems of production and salesmanship. But it is not quite the world into which he was born, and when the day's work is over he turns for refreshment of soul to old Japan. The hot bath taken, he puts on a kimono, sits on his soft, matted floor, eats Japanese food from a table that looks like a low stool.

If he goes to the theater it is to watch a classic drama of love and chivalry, and much as he enjoys Hollywood, three-fifths of the films he sees depict the adventures of the two-sworded men of whom his grandfather or perhaps his father was one. Every Japanese newspaper carries two serial stories—one of modern life and one of cloak and sword.

The Japanese, who has spent the day at his office or factory will entertain you in the evening in a room whose style has not changed in three centuries and every inmate of which, from the host in his flowing silk to the geisha who pours out your wine, is attired in the garb you see in Harunobu's prints. These beautiful tea house buildings, as charming as a colorprint and as speckless as a new pin, express old Japan's ideas of splendor, hospitality and beauty, and they give today its escape from the machine age. Thus they survive amid the steel and concrete and give the city a distinctly Oriental character.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

You have a figure so slender that the loss of a pound would attract attention, and yet I heard you rejoicing yesterday because the winter months hadn't increased your weight.

Perhaps that is nothing to worry about, for a normally keen appetite seems to have no effect on your "girlish lines," and a girl of seventeen who hasn't begun to grow plump need not fear any inherited tendency to widen overmuch; but the mere fact that you have so soon developed an interest in slenderness gives me an uneasy feeling that the first appearance of fat will make you a victim to the popular fad of dieting.

Maybe I am overanxious, for you seem sensible enough; but in any case a word of warning will do no harm.

When I was a small boy, nice ladies didn't use rouge or lipstick and their state of health was apparent at a glance.

That was the day of tight corsets and long skirts and no exercise, and, of course, fashionable women enjoyed very poor health.

The heroine in a popular novel was likely to be "an interesting invalid," and the real blue-bloods were so delicate they could faint in any emergency when tears failed to get what they wanted.

Strong, healthy women were considered vulgar, and any girl above eighteen who had roses in her cheeks was "common."

The young man who married into one of the best families soon learned to use medical terms as glibly as a quack doctor and accepted drug bills on the first of the month as a part of normal existence.

The only fellows who could save their wages to get a start in business were the ones who married corn-fed, round-cheeked lasses who were ashamed of being so healthy.

And now history seems to be repeating.

Every day or so we hear about some girl or woman who has tampered with nature once too often and wound up in a sanitarium.

You can be slender and healthy if you got that kind of tendency from your ancestors; but if Nature designed you to get plump, you must choose between folly and wisdom.

You can be plump and healthy, or you can be skinny and sickly—but you can't be skinny and well.

If only youth could know what age knows!

There isn't anything that will take the place of health, and there's no fun in life without it.

Get plump if you must—get fat if you must—and rejoice hourly in the fact that you feel good.

Being a perfect 34 is no consolation when you're housed in where nobody except the family knows it. Love, DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

SONG OF THE HIGH-GRADE INVESTMENTS.

(In the old-fashioned manner.)

I.

"Always buy the high-grade issues,"
Mother always said to me;
"Never fool around the cheap stocks—
They will bring you misery.
Choose the leading stocks and always
Dodge the bucket shops and joints;"
So I bought U. S. Steel shrewdly—
And it fell but 60 points!

II.

"Never touch the things that haven't Stood the test of stress and time,"
Was my father's message to me,
"If you'd ever have a dime."
"Take A. T. & T.," he told me,
"And you'll be quite free from care;"
So I bought some and it only
Fell down 50 bucks a share!

III.

Once my dear old Uncle Luther
Who was frugal, cool and wise,
Told me, "Only seasoned issues
Are at any time good buys."
"General," he said, "Electric
Is like money put in trust;"
I bought it and just 20
Points was all that it did bust.

IV.

"Able management," he told me,
"Is the thing to bear in mind;
Buy a stock like Con. Gas, sonny,
And a profit you will find."
So I got aboard on Tuesday
Just to hold it for a spurt
And I'm really not complaining—
For I still own half my shirt.

V.

"Always pick the stocks of standing,"
Said a banker most astute;
"Then you'll not be taking chances
And they'll call you smart to boot."
So I bought some New York Central,
And I ought to be quite glad
For its minus sign of twenty
Isn't (so they tell me) bad.

VI.

"Be conservative and cautious,"
Urged a sage investment friend;
"Buy the standard old-time leaders—
It will pay you in the end."
I bought Standard of New Jersey,
Yearning for a touch of wealth,
And I guess that I was lucky
For I still posess my health!

VII.

Now the moral of this ditty
Isn't difficult to find——
When you're fooling in the market
Bear this uppermost in mind:
When you're told to buy the good ones
As you play the Wall street game
Know, no matter how they slice it,
It's boloney just the same.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Speaking From Forty Years of Experience, a Woman Says She Never Met a Prisoner Who Did Not Respond to Kindness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the awful holocaust that recently occurried in the Ohio prison, I am moved to tell just a little of my experience with prisoners in the last 40 years.

A few months ago I read of a warden who told each man that he would have justice, but no mercy, while in his prison; that there would be no recreation or sob sisters, allowed within the walls. Justice is almost impossible under normal conditions, but when a man is half crazed with sorrow, humiliation and remorse he is not normal.

A great mistake is made by people who think that men are turned into savage beasts when they commit some crime in the heat of passion or for lack of self-control, or in a fit of jealous or drunken rage. The majority of these men would give half their lives to have their acts undone, and are deeply repentant within the hour. I have had many say to me, "How I wish he had killed me! I am haunted by his dead face."

It is impossible to know the motives and background or circumstances leading up to these crimes from a ten-minute questioning in a witness chair, or the awful grilling which some are subjected to.

I am not a maudlin sentimentalist, but my years of experience with prisoners has convinced me that these unfortunate human beings are made desperate by the conditions under which they find themselves—wretched food, damp, dark, ill-ventilated cells, brutal treatment by armed guards who often show great partiality to a few unworthy cringing ones. I have never found a single prisoner who did not respond to kindness or who was indifferent to prayer. A few have tried to bluff, before their companions, but this vanishes when they tell you of their own sorrow—fathers with ruined daughters, husbands with unfaithful wives, dissolute sons of overindulgent mothers.

Conditions in our State institutions have improved greatly in the last 30 years; still there is much room for amelioration in our asylums for the feeble minded and insane.

Wardens should be reminded that through the self-indulgence of some ancestors many people have inherited an inferior mentality. If ancestors could only look in upon these poor creatures, as they sit dejected, with pale, drawn faces and streaming eyes, trying to sing, "We will understand it better by and by;" if we could visualize our own progeny under these conditions, we would be more careful of the heredity of which they are innocent victims. Cigarettes Cause Forest Fires and Prevent Mothers From Nursing Their Babies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We note that alarmingly destructive forest fires are raging throughout the Eastern section of our country, but the origin of these fires has not been mentioned. They are due, in large measure, to millions of lighted cigarette stumps that are being carelessly thrown from auto cars as they traverse our various highways. These abominable things are not only a nuisance and a menace in this respect, but they are producing a generation of weaklings.

It has been stated, and with authority, by one of Washington's most eminent physicians, a physician who has brought into the world over 17,000 babies, that not one single mother of this small army of blessed children is able to nurse her child who has contracted the habit of smoking. Unnatural and artificial means had to be resorted to in order to preserve life.

Is this not enough to call a halt to so accursed and baneful a habit? To the multitude of dear mothers and daughters whom we love, in God's name let not this note of warning go unheeded. W. J. MOORE.

Gorgeous Tulips of Walter Reed Hospital and the Message They Convey.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Tulips! Tulips! Tulips! Two gorgeous beds just south of the Red Cross House at Walter Reed Hospital! Long rows of assorted colors! First rows on the outsides are beautifully pink, next two rows a deep blood red, next a yellow, and the center row a deep red. Nine rows in all of gorgeously beautiful tulips.

Although some red tulips are beginning to wither and blacken, one can almost hear them speak their little human message: "We are just like you; for we, too, must wither and die and our very life force decay." VENER M. HOLSTON.

Information Wanted Regarding Meteor That Fell in Central Virginia on May 3.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If there has not already been published a careful account of the meteor that fell in central Virginia on the evening of May 3, I (and probably many others), would be very grateful for a description of the same from some one who was well situated to observe it. Unfortunately my friend and myself were under a north porch from which nothing could be seen but the brilliant glare of light, which surpassed anything I have ever seen in the night time. S. B.

TREATY OF SECURITY DRAFTED AT GENEVA

Preliminary Document Held Advance in Machinery for Balking War.

ITALY, JAPAN DISSENT

Geneva, May 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The arbitration and security committee of the League of Nations, which has been in session here a fortnight, concluded a preliminary draft treaty today.

The document provides that the contracting parties "undertake, in the event of a dispute arising between them and being brought before the league council, to accept and apply conservatory measures of a nonmilitary character which the council, acting in accordance with the powers conferred on it by the covenant, may recommend."

This constitutes a marked advance in the league's machinery for strengthening the means of preventing war, but many irreconcilable divergencies remain. Italy and Japan are standing firm against any "general treaty," preferring "separate agreements or regional pacts" for the preservation of peace. Other countries are opposed to the compulsory character of the measures which might be taken by the council as well as any league supervision of sanctions.

Mariano Cornejo, of Peru, submitted a proposal under which the league would be forbidden to register any peace treaty imposed by force as a consequence of a war undertaken in violation of the Kellogg pact. The Peruvian proposal would obligate the league to "render every assistance in restoring the status quo destroyed by force." It was incorporated in the committee's report for discussion when revision of the covenant comes before the league assembly.

Bishop's Son Indicted In Slaying at Brawl

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—James Matthew Maxon, jr., 21, son of the Episcopal Bishop of Tennessee, today was indicted for second degree murder by a general sessions grand jury. Young Maxon is alleged to have killed David Paynter, 73, during a drunken brawl in a boarding house here last month.

The case was presented to the grand jury by an assistant district attorney, who called Maxon's landlady, two fellow roomers and Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, as witnesses. Maxon, charged with first degree murder, had been denied bail. Under the second degree indictment, he is entitled to freedom under bond pending trial.

Connolly Put in Prison To Start Graft Term

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Maurice Connolly, former borough president of Queens, presented himself at Welfare Island Prison today to begin serving a sentence of one year for misuse of public funds. A few moments earlier Frederick B. Seeley, former chief engineer in the borough president's office, had been delivered to the prison.

Connolly and Seeley both were convicted in connection with the Queens sewer grafts, and their sentences were upheld earlier this week by the State Court of Appeals. In addition to the prison sentences both men must pay $500 fines.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE manner in which Senators Reed and Robinson were recently acclaimed in the Senate upon their return from London—now that is a step in the right direction in this peace business.

These men who had been engaged in peace efforts were received pretty much as two returning warriors. Their fellow senators suspended and stood up and applauded as they were escorted itno the chamber. It is not recalled that any such reception as this was given to the two senatorial delegates to the parley of 1922, but then, of course, they only returned from the upper end of the Avenue.

* * * *

BUT the reception to Reed and Robinson shows unmistakably that some one who has to do with the mass mind is getting hep to the fact that the drive for peace must be a militant, aggressive, martial thing.

There must be celebrations attending peace efforts; there must be fanfare and bands. One must, indeed, work up as much enthusiasm about the business as is worked up about a war.

Of course, if the war game is to be employed in the peace crusade, if the analogy is to be used, then history will probably say of Messrs. Reed and Robinson that they returned in tatters and in rags and found their crops all gone, but that the tribute to them was such as a grateful Confederacy gave to its returning warriors.

* * * *

THERE is still much to be done in the whooping up of this peace business. The Senate reception was a step in the right direction, but there is still considerable work to be done.

One reads, for example, that the New York parade in honor of the return of Mr. Stimson and his colleagues was a decided flop. News reports have it that a white wing sidling up to an accompanying motorcycle cop, asked sotto voce:

"What's coming off?"

"The peace delegates returning from London," was the reply.

"The what?" pressed the white wing. And so it goes.

What Mr. Stimson and his colleagues needed were uniforms—something just as gaudy as the martial plumes. Indeed, all the delegates should have had uniforms at London. You've got to have uniforms to lift the peace business to a high plane. Get uniforms and you will find men who will even fight for peace.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Maria J. Leslie, former housekeeper for Mrs. Isaac Emerson, wife of a Baltimore drug manufacturer, was found guilty today of larceny of jewelry she purchased on her employer's credit. The jury recommended mercy.

Mrs. Leslie was alleged to have purchased $173,000 worth of jewelry at Wanamaker's store here on Mrs. Emerson's charge account and to have sold it to other jewelers. Store employes testified that she represented herself as Mrs. Emerson's social adviser and secretary and gave them a letter of introduction signed by her employer.

Mercury Hits 98 As Heat Continues

No Relief in Sight Today, According to Weather Bureau Report.

The low pressure area blamed for the unseasonal heat of the week remained unbroken yesterday, when the mercury reached one degree higher than the day before, with prospects of going just as high today. The Pennsylvania avenue kiosk registered 98 at 3:30 o'clock, while the Weather Bureau reported a maximum of 89½.

Cloud "umbrellas" and showers, predicted several days ago, again failed to develop and the city sweltered in the sixth day of temperatures considerably higher than the average for the past 33 years.

Today is expected to be cloudless and just as hat as, if not hotter than, yesterday. Prognosticators of the bureau said it was impossible to predict the date of the low pressure area's dissipation, and subsequent return to normal May temperatures.

15,000 SLAIN IN CHINA BY BANDITS, REPORT

Unverified Dispatch Tells of Slaughter and Looting in City of Yungyang.

KAI-SHEK HURRIES THERE

Nanking, May 9 (A.P.).—While bandit armies were scouring several provinces of China, Pei Chiang Kai-Shek, of the Nationalist government, hastened to Suchow, Kiangsu province, today, to take command of troops endeavoring to halt the advance of the northern alliance toward Nanking, China's capital.

From Yungyang, Honan province, came belated and unverified Chinese reports of 15,000 persons slaughtered by 4,000 bandits who sacked the town April 23, looting and burning it. Five hundred of the more prosperous residents were carried off by bandits to be held for ransom. So thorough was the destruction of the town that no word of it came until today.

The massacre at Yungyang was the latest reported of a long series of outrages that for many months hav occurred in several provinces. They are attributed to cold, famine and communism.

Under the banners of the northern alliance of generals seeking overthrow of the Nationalist government, some of the best trained armies in China were batling today to seize the railroad near Suchow to advance upon Nanking. As customary, when manaced by large scale revolt, the government reared a censorship wall and little news came through.

Developments yesterday, however, indicated the magnitude of the fighting. Twenty thousand wounded Nationalist soldiers came from the battle front near Suchow toward which the rebels were reported menacing from three sectors.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The siren on fire apparatus should have one certain meaning for the motorist. It is that on hearing it he should draw to the curb and stop until it has passed. The District regulations give fire apparatus, police cars, and ambulances absolute right-of-way.

There is the further rule that a driver must not delay or impede the firemen. The regulations also provide that no vehicle shall approach within one city block of any fire apparatus or other vehicles while in public use.

Example: A driver hears a fire siren nearby as he is going up Sixteenth street. He keeps moving in the belief that, since it seems to be some distance away, he is not required to stop. That driver has disregarded the regulation and is subject to arrest and fine.

Reserve Officer Dies in Air Crash

Man With Capital Address Killed and Another Hurt in Hartford.

Hartford, Conn., May 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Capt. Lewis H. Taylor, U. S. Reserve Corps, whose address was given as 1910 K street northwest, Washington, D. C., was burned to death and Milton H Moore, owner of the Interstate Airways, was probably fatally injured when an airplane in which they were flying crashed at Brainard Field this afternoon.

The two men had just taken off from the field in a stiff wind and when just above the hangar the motor went dead. In trying to work the plane back to the field, the men went into a side slip and crashed. The motor took fire and burned the plane and Capt. Taylor was caught in the wreckage and burned. Mr. Moore managed to crawl out and was taken to the Hartford Hospital, where he is not expected to live.

Capt. Lewis H. Taylor, who was fatally burned in Hartford, Conn., is not listed in Washington directories Although his address was given as 1910 K street northwest, employes here declared that he had never made his home there, but had visited friends in the apartment house upon several occasions. He was said to be about 50 years old.

4,000 PRIESTS BEGIN EUCHARISTIC PARLEY

French Clerics at Congress to Honor War Dead of Tunis Today.

PAPAL LEGATE LINGUIST

Carthage, Tunisia, May 9 (A.P.).—Four thousand priests of nearly all nations, including more than a hundred Americans, assembled this afternoon for the first sacredotal conference of the Thirtieth International Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church.

After discussions lasting an hour, priests were grouped in sections according to the languages they spoke. Americans, British and Irish occupied one section. The Americans have been given a church for communion and mass on Sunday.

French priests, who are also war veterans, today decided to accord the fullest honors to the war dead of Tunis, who were mostly Moslems and Jews. On Saturday morning these priests will decorate the monument to their fallen comrades in arms of other races and religions.

The entire activities of the congress today centered in Carthage instead of Tunis.

Cardinal Lepicier, the papal legate, has astounded all the delegations by his linguistic fluency, to nearly all he speaks in their own tongue. As he spent some time in the United States and in England, his English is perfect. He also speaks Italian, German and Spanish, in addition to French.

Mrs. Sparrow To Translate Envoy's Book

Senhor de Mello to Sail Tuesday for Post in Vienna.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHEN he sails for Europe on Tuesday, Senhor Rubens Fereira de Mello, retiring first secretary of the Brazilian Embassy, will leave his novel "Ambajador Fagundes" in the hands of Mrs. Herbert George Sparrow for translation preparatory to publication in the United States. Written in Portugese, the traditional language of Brazil, this novel, which is described as satirical and subtle, won second prize from the Brazilian Academy of Letters last year. It received much critical acclaim, being widely heralded as "one of the best satires of modern Portugese literature."

Mrs. Sparrow, the wife of a naval officer, is best known as a sculptor, but she is a linguist of no mean ability, and is said to have a pretty literary talent to bring to the translation of Senhor de Mello's work.

Senhor and Senhora de Mello are now in New York, after having been given a gay send-off by their friends in Washington. They have booked passage on the S. S. Republic, sailing Tuesday, and will land in Hamburg. Senhor de Mello will go direct to his new post in Vienna, but, before rejoining him in Austria, Senhora de Mello will go to Denmark to visit her family, whom she has not seen since her marriage.

It was while he was stationed in Copenhagen that Senhor de Mello met the beautiful Danish girl who became his wife and who, while her husband was on duty in Washington, was one of the much toasted beauties of the diplomatic group. Senhora de Mello's brother, who is in the Danish diplomatic service, is now stationed in Rio de Janeiro and is married to a Brazilian girl.

The yacht is commodius and comfortable, with a fine library, which is regularly supplied with current magazines and newspapers. RADIO FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

"NO one tried to gag Damrosch," one of our best-informed friends in New York writes apropos the orchestra conductor's suddenly abbreviating his musical talks on Saturday nights (WRC, 8 p. m.). "The canny Walter was trying an experiment in order to stimulate mail.

"The radio audience never writes when a program is satisfactory. It is only when it is canceled that there are protests."

During a special program tonight the Marine Band will play "Dear Old Pal of Mine" for Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, cammandant of the Marine Corps, now confined to the Naval Hospital (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.). Also the new Sousa march the "Royal Welch Fusiliers."

WITH the confirmation of Marconi's prediction that the Pope would soon address the people of the world from the new short-wave station the inventor is building for him in the Vatican City, the question arises as to what language His Holiness will use on this occasion.

In order to provide time for what is promised to be the season's most elaborate offering, the Atwater Kent program will begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, 15 minutes earlier than usual.

A 110 piece band, the music week contribution of Local No. 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, will introduce a new Goldman march, "The New Yorker," in Central Park this afternoon (WRC, 3 o'clock).

"Arabesque," a radio drama heard over Columbia Sunday evenings for more than a year, has given its last Sunday broadcast. It will be off the air until May 22 when a new Thursday series commences.

USUALLY talk is cheap in a campaign, but we learn that Ambassador Dwight Morrow and former Senator Joe Frelinghuysen will both be required to pay Hollywood McCosker $350 for each 15-minute and $450 for each 30-minute period they broadcast over WOR, Newark, in the Jersey senatorial skirmish.

In addition, they will have to pay the wire charges when broadcasting is done from remote points. Even so, they are lucky, because WOR doesn't hike up its rates as most stations do in campaigns.

With so many newspaper columnists on the air, Walter Winchell being the latest (WABC, Monday, 6:45 p. m.), some of them will be lucky if they don't get the air instead.

Heywood Broun, to be heard earlier the same evening (WMAL—5:15), looking for the mechanical equivalent of a three-em dash to punctuate his ethereal paragraphs, is said to have hit upon a mechanical hee-haw bray of a donkey.

He may be right, at that!

WITH bargain rates in effect, beginning tomorrow, one may talk from Washington to London by radiophone for only about $30, Paris $34, or Berlin $35.

Three years ago, when the service began, the London rate was $75.

The transmission of time signals supposed to be correct to one two-hundredths of a second was a feature of a new program started last night.

Dr. L. P. Wheeler, Naval Research Laboratory, has been elected chairman of the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers, John B. Brady, vice chairman, and Dr. H. G. Dorsey, of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, secretary.

AN international forum with statesmen of Great Britain and the United States exchanging ideas will begin Monday (WRC, 3:25 p. m.) with Sir Philip Kerr, the Marquis of Lothian, speaking from London.

It will continue each Monday for eight weeks.

A letter from a grandmother to a jazz pianist complains that during one of his recent broadcasts she attempted to show her grandchildren a few of the more lively steps of her generation.

As she danced to his tunes she suddenly slipped and fell, dislocating her hip. The tempo of the music made her too enthusiastic, she said.

A canvass of a group of listeners recently revealed that a large majority preferred music rather than speech.

FROM the Sioux City Tribune:

"Perhaps the National Government is taking a census count on radio ownership because it could not think of anything else that is less the business of the National Government."

Ann Interprets the Mode

A smart and practical housedress for the woman who must do her own work. (Dare design.)

Paris, May 9.

THAT which is chic, appropriate and practical is the modern woman's demand in her clothing. Whether her profession be that of secretary, schoolma'am or housewife. Just as she has demanded a special type of dress for tennis, another for riding, another for business, a different one for social affairs, so has she demanded a special type of garment in which to do her housework. Not just an old apron thing with shapeless floppy sleeves, made of unimaginatively printed calico and so-called wash material, but a dress with every bit as much smartness to it as any other dress in her wardrobe. Smartness and comfort, with due consideration for any and all emergencies that arise in the life of a busy housewife, as well as for her duties.

And just to show you what an influence "Mrs American Housewife," has on the modes of the world, the Paris couturiers have seriously occupied themselves with the business of designing housedresses for her, despite the fact that servants are still plentiful and cheap in Europe!

• • • •

Not being one of the better known Paris couturiers, I have taken the best features from several of their frocks and incorporated them into a housedress which I defy anyone to tell me is not the last word in practicability and chic.

One would make this of cotton shanting or tussor as they like to call it, or who cares if it is silk shanting, since this is also washable? And one would have the trousers and blouse looking as they do in the illustration, or more so, with the trousers wide enough so that they wouldn't offend anybody's idea of what a lovely lady shouldn't do her housework in. And then there is a smart semi-pleated skirt that whisks on in a moment for doorbell answering, or for luncheon or for going out to do the morning's shopping . . . when at the same time one would button on with the same buttons that fasten the shoulder, a little cape!

• • • •

If you think for a moment that this same dress wouldn't be smart and practical for a tennis outfit your wrong . . . play your tennis in the suit, and slip on the skirt and cape for going to and from the court.

• • • •

How would you like to have this housedress? Oh, it's the easiest thing to make you ever saw . . . with my expert assistance of course! You sit down and make out a stamped, self-addressed envelope, then you put it in a letter addressed to Dare Department, Washington Post, and the minute the illustrated leaflet, telling you how to make this re-e-e-e-markable garment, comes back from the printer, it will be sent to you. Better sit right down and do it this minute because you might forget and then think how sorry you'd be.

• • • •

And here's the reminder, that tomorrow's the day for the weekly Dare fashion letter. By all means look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Can One Love Too Much?"

DEAR MISS McDONALD: Do you consider I am making a mistake in loving too much? When one loves so much that they are not happy unless with one person, is it a mistake? Or would you call this real, true, deep love? I can not think of anything all day long but him, and he was the same at first. I have been going with him for quite a while and we loved each other equally at first. To be frank, I love him very dearly, much more than he loves me. To me he is perfect. I can look up to him and there find my happiness, and every longing that I may have.

We see each other three times a week, on some occasions oftener. For my part I could see him every minute of every day. But he can enjoy ball games without me and many other things. Can a love be too deep? Will it affect him, as he seems to take it for granted? Will he lose his impulse to be solicitous and become self-satisfied? He could go a week without a word from me I know.

Even a short answer will be very much appreciated, Miss McDonald. I am told I am ruining him as a man and that he is already "fed up." Can this be true? TRUE LOVE.

What you describe is emotional dyspepsia, not love at all. I would love to tell you that this is a magnificent passion. But alas I can not! Your lovers' attitude toward you is normal, yours toward him is just dependence, an expression of weakness and will in time cause in him a violent reaction and recoil. Men are so much saner about love than we are They can kiss us good-by and wonder what time it is at the same moment, and we should learn to imitate their nonchalance. Love is a gladsome thing or it is a burden, and men hate burdens! If you really want to hold the love you crave so much, stop acting as if your life depended upon it. Such an attitude is enough to terrify any man for it is morbid. The wife who has no thought or interest all day long except the poor mortal who appears at 6 p. m. for his dinner, is always a bore. She greets the man as if he had just been rescued from fire or flood, and he with nothing on his mind but his dinner, is in no mood to appreciate her intensity. Start now to be normal. Go some place every day, and force yourself to a normal interest in everything about you. If you do not you will learn too late that men dread the thought of becoming sun, moon and stars to some other human being. That's not a man's idea of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRES.

PLEASE tell me why my narcissi never bloom and why the tips of the leaves turn brown. D. M. F.

You likely have brought your narcissus to the light to soon. Before bringing these plants to the light you should be sure that they have developed an adequate root system. This takes about three weeks, during which time the bulbs must be in a dark place. The tips of the leaves turn yellow as the plant is passing into sear leaf.

Will you please tell me of a rapid-growing vine which will provide shade for a porch with an eastern exposure?
MILDRED H. H.

Polygonum is a rapid grower, free from disease, and has few if any insect enemies. A small plant will make a growth of thirty feet the first summer. This vine bears long clusters of white flowers which turn a rosy red as they grow old.

Please tell how to keep the dogs from injuring a collection of small shrubs and fur trees. ALBERT W.

As a rule, dogs do not cause any injury to well-established shrubs, but they are likely to kill the dwarf evergreens which are used for foundation planting. The only way to protect these low-growing trees is to place a wire fence around each plant.

Please tell me whether to start a primrose from seeds or cuttings.
MISS H. EDNA S.

Primroses are usually propagated from seeds.

How shall I treat a night blooming cereus when blooming to get the best results. MRS. F. D.

Keep plant in a warm, sunny, well-ventillated place, water it every other day and spray foliage once a week with cold, soapy water.

I have a plant which is fifteen inches high. It bears long, upright sprays of feathery white or pinkish flowers. My friend tells me it is an astilbe. The plant is not rare, though I can not find it in any catalogue. I want to find the real name of the plant. Is a camellia suitable for outdoor culture in this vicinity.
MRS. P. J. H.

Your plant is undoubtedly an astilbe. A camellia is not handy in your locality. It is really a conservatory plant demanding a warm, moist atmosphere and a great deal of moisture. It must have a rich soil and sun at least five hours a day.

For the last four years I have tried to have good grass in front of my house. The plot is shaded by huge trees and gets really no sun. Please suggest a remedy for this condition.
E. V. W.

Better plant a ground cover plant. Japanese spurge is one of the best This will cover the entire ground in a season, if planted close. When well established it is as attrative as grass.

Please tell me if scillas are perfectly hardy in all parts of the country, also if they require a rich soil.
MARION H. L.

Yes, scillas are perfectly hardy in all parts of the country. They demand rather rich soil and the bulbs should be set two inches deep.

Please tell me whether anemones will thrive in a clay soil and whether the bulbs should be planted deeper than two inches.
MRS. WILLIAM N. K.

Anemones demand a rather rich soil and are not likely to do well in heavy clay loam. Set bulbs about two inches below the surface of the soil.

WORK ON BRIDGE

This article is intended for the Auction or Contract Bridge beginner.

When playing either Auction or Contract Bridge, Declarer frequently is in doubt as to which of two suits he should attempt to establish when the Contract is No Trump.

With the following hand played at Auction, South would bid one Spade, North two Diamonds and South two No Trumps; at Contract South would bid two Spades, North three Diamonds and South three No Trumps. In neither game would East or West do anything but pass.

West would lead a Heart; he has as many Spades as Hearts and the Spades are stronger, but it would be foolish to lead a suit up to a hand that has declared it.

With the Heart Deuce led, Declarer can not take more than one Heart trick, but as West, by leading his lowest Heart, has shown a four-card suit, Declarer knows that the adversaries will not take more than three Heart tricks.

After winning the Heart, Declarer can count as sure, two Spades, the one Heart already won, two Diamonds and one Club; he needs three more tricks for game. His Ace-Queen Club finesse (an even chance) would produce one of the three; and two more could be obtained if the fourth and fifth Diamond in dummy or the fourth and fifth Spade in the closed hand could be established and run. Neither of these suits can be established without losing a trick in it, and as the adversaries will take three Heart tricks besides the trick in the suit that Declarer tries to establish, the second suit can not be tried if the first fails, and enough tricks won to make game, so it is important that he select the suit that most probably can be established.

South's Spades headed by Ace-King-Ten-Eight are stronger than North's Diamonds headed by Ace-King-Four; but there are eight Diamonds in Declarer's two hands and seven Spades. The adversaries have six Spades and five Diamonds; it is long odds that their five Diamonds are divided 3-2 and while their Spades may be divided 3-3 or 4-2, the odds favor the 4-2 division. So Declarer should lead a Diamond as there is much greater probability of establishing that suit with the loss of only one trick. As dummy has no entries outside of Diamonds, Declarer should lose either the first or second Diamond trick.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The gateways to happiness and success will stand open on this date, if astrological conditions prove true. The element of risk will be removed from most things. Cherish the new friendship, which is augured to be formed at this time.

The child born on this May 10 will have a sweet and charming little personality, but not a strong, nor particularly clever, one. It will be very affectionate, easily controlled, and easily pleased. It will make many friends and few enemies.

You are unadulteratedly blunt, and you pride yourself on your honesty, truthfulness and sincerity, all of which belong to the highest virtues possessed by mankind. Although you yourself are sensitive to the slightest censure, you ladle it out generously to your friends. It is true that you do not criticize people behind their backs, but your frontal attacks are sufficient unto the day. One would not ask you to become insincere or untruthful, but you should try to be more gentle and clever in what you say—a pinch of tact and a pound of philosophy bring priceless returns.

You have a one-track mind, and it is probably centered upon your business, job or profession. There is probably nothing pleases you more than "talking shop," and you are probably able to do this with more than the average degree of intelligence. You are not a "Jack of All Trades," but are simply and purely a specialist. Your interests and knowledge are not widespread, but you know what you do know very thoroughly, and you never pretend at anything. You never shirk your obligations, or run away from duty. Your friends rely upon your loyalty, and probably forgive your accusing tongue, for they know you are not heartless nor unsympathetic. There are few temperaments with whom you could keep step in the matrimonial field.

Successful People Born May 10:

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IT should be a source of the utmost gratification to the sweltering motion picture addict that the boys in charge of the local palaces of the cinema are lads of foresight and vision. As early as March each year they awaken to the consciousness that in course of time the weather will turn hot and they better be ready to make their theaters turn cool when it happens.

That is why, as long ago as two months, they all began to putter around their refrigerating and ventilating systems, dusting off the air-washing apparatus and chasing the rats out of the cooling coils, against the coming of the day of these oppressive temperatures.

They tell me that "Cap'n Joe," the cooling plant man at the Palace, started his tinkering so long ago that he suffered a severe attack of chilblains at the job. But I am led to believe that the frosted nose and the nipped ears were worth it. From all I am given to understand, Cap'n Joe, in association with the big icicle and iceberg men from the Loew home office, succeeded in perfecting a gadget for removing the dampness from the chilled atmosphere in the playhouse, thus rendering audience comfort nearer 100 per cent than ever before.

Much the same thing has been done at the Fox, Metropolitan and Earle, all of which have within the last few days turned on their icy, arctic blasts to keep the customers from melting and trickling down through the floor and messing up the cellar.

In case you don't remember, it was only last summer that the Metropolitan was equipped with its refrigerated air system at a cost of approximately $50,000, the complete reconstruction of the substage areas at the Tenth Street end of the theater being necessitated to accommodate the tons of machinery that were installed.

We suggest that for a snappy slogan the picture houses adopt some such line as, say, "twenty degrees cooler than the street!"

On me dit que vous avez trouve mon dernier role tres charmant arretez Mon role dans "The Big Pond" est encore plus epatant arretez Faites moi connaitre votre reaction.

MAURICE CHEVALIER.

Probably no one with a less comprehensive knowledge of French than my own would ever suspect that Mons. Chevalier is talking about "The Big Pond," which opens next Friday at the Metropolitan.

Now, if I can just find out what the rest of it says. . . . . .

At last Noah Beery is to afford his public the opportunity they have been awaiting ever since this brief vocal appearance in the "Pirate" episode with Ted Lewis and his band in the Warner Bros. production of "The Show of Shows."

It will be recalled, or maybe not, that in this rousing scene, in which Beery and Tully Marshall were a couple of as ominous looking buccaneers as every scuttled a ferryboat, the Beery basso was revealed to an astonished public in a singing role of about three notes. Those three, however, were enough to demonstrate the fine quality of their master's voice and rouse the hope in the minds of many of us that some time we would be permitted to hear Noah Beery really sing. That time has come.

In "Song of the Flame," current at the Earle, the Beery voice is really turned loose for all it is worth—which I understand is a great deal. Perhaps the ad in the last issue of Variety tells the whole story when it says, "Noah Beery sings 'One Little Drink' in a voice two notes lower than any ever recorded. One of the many big surprises."

There, too, there are Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray, 28 big sets and 50 smaller ones, to provide background for thousands of players, and a lot of other things that only an adding machine could keep up with.

So far, I have only been to see "King of Jazz," at the Rialto, twice, but I hope to do better this week.

By the way, that noise you hear, like a trap-drummer thumping his cocoanut shells, is caused by my knees knocking together at the prospect of appearing in Corcoran Hall next Monday evening to address the class in journalism of George Washington University on the subject of "The Motion Picture and the Newspaper."

Those 102 airplanes I counted yesterday afternoon made an imposing spectacle, but it certainly was no cold storage plant up on that tin roof!

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Sometimes only a small change in table tactics is necessary to restrain the child who has been allowed to slip into bad food habits. If refusal to eat centers around a particular food, try a different method of preparing it. Even a new dish or device for serving such as a small pitcher from which to pour the milk or a straw through which to sip it may create a new interest in eating. If not, it may be well to stop serving the disliked food entirely for a time. When it is to be introduced again, try to increase the child's interest by letting him help buy and prepare it. Be sure not to remind him of his former dislike. Serve him only a small amount when it comes on the table.

Problems connected with eating differ according to the circumstances which allow them to begin. They can not, therefore, all be solved in the same way. Some parents have found it wise to serve any unwelcome food first in the meal offering nothing else until the child clears his plate of that portion. With some children it is better to strike a compromise, serving at the same time the undesired and the most desired food and requiring that the plate be cleared of both. A casual comment favorable by an adult at the table about food or his preference for it may be a very effective suggestion for the child to enjoy it.

Neuritis

There is no pain like Neuritis, nothing quite so torturing, so utterly unbearable. It robs life of all joy and makes people desperate. But Neuritis is not hopeless—it responds to proper treatment, just the same as other diseases. A well-known physician has written, "Have been drinking Mountain Valley Water for six weeks and am glad to say I am feeling better than I have for two years." Mountain Valley Mineral Water, for 75 years the prescribed water at Hot Springs, Arkansas, tends to neutralize the acids which are irritating the nerves and retards the further accumulation of these acids by aiding healthy, normal elimination through the kidneys. INQUIRIES ARE BEGUN IN ST. JOSEPH BLAST

Death Toll Is Put at 14, With Three Men Still Listed as Missing.

INQUEST IS SCHEDULED

St. Joseph, Mo., May 9 (A.P.).—With fourteen known dead and three persons missing and believed to have been killed, three separate investigations were started tonight to attempt to learn the cause of the explosion which demolished a six-story brick unit of the packing plant of Armour & Co. in South St. Joseph late yesterday. Property damage was estimated at $450,000 by Armour officials.

A coroner's jury was summoned to conduct an inquest into the deaths of the explosion victims, a citizens' committee of mechanicanl and chemical and other experts was appointed to investigate the physical properties of the packing plant, and a private investigation will be undertaken by officals of Armour & Co.

The citizens' committee was formed after W. E. Renfro, general manager of the packing plant, and Leo Urdanski, fire chief of St. Joseph, had expressed the belief that natural gas caused the explosion. Coroner B. W. Tadlock declared inquiries into the gas explosion deaths here in March and May, 1929, were unsatisfactory because of a lack of expert opinion.

The citizens' group will submit a report at the coroner's inquest.

Rescue work proceeded in efforts to find the three missing men. In the company's office, officials checked the entire personnel of 2,000 to ascertain whether any men or women from other departments were missing. Except for the three missing men, all regular employes in the unit which was wrecked were accounted for.

Man Sentenced to Die In Slaying of Sheriff

Blountstown, Fla., May 9 (A.P.).—J. T. Blackwell, convicted of first degree murder in Circuit Court here for the killing of Sheriff C. D. Clark, of Calhoun County, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair by Judge Amos Lewis.

Judge Lewis then gave the defense 60 days in which to file a bill of exceptions so that a writ of error could be taken to the State Supreme Court. Blackwell shot the sheriff on a Blountstown street. The sentence was imposed after Judge Lewis had overruled a motion of the defense for a new trial.

Could Hardly Do Her Work

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound in a booklet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks, R. R. #2, Rushville, Indiana.

HIGH LIGHTS OF GREAT WORLD WAR

Take Three Guesses

Col. Smedley D. Butler was riding in the regimental staff car along the muddy roads near Brest, France, when he saw a forlorn private of his command sitting by the roadside with his head in his hand.

The colonel, muddy and disheveled himself and with no visible distinguishing marks to denote his rank, stopped his car and inquired of the private what his troubles were.

The "buck," not recognizing the colonel in the gathering dusk, enlightened the surprised officer with some vitriolic remarks concerning all officers, and "Old Smed' Butler" in particular.

The colonel sympathized with him and then summoned his car and directed the chauffeur-sergeant to take him and detain him at headquarters.

Picking up the private's miscellaneous assortment of planks and boards, Col. Butler "hoofed it" the remaining three kilometers to headquarters, where from that armful of wood a duckboard was constructed. From that time on "Duckboard" Butler was the fond nickname we had for him—even after he was promoted to the rank of brigadier general.

As to the private—his fate was never learned. ED HENRY.

Back Home Again

The First Battalion was in the lead of the regiment marching into Germany and near the major was the usual group of "gold bricks," dog-robbers, runners, &c., and also Private Schriber, who would do the necessary interpreting when we made stops in the small villages along the route. One day, Schriber asked the major if he could be off that night and the major, who thought he was joking, replied "sure, but be back in the morning."

Arriving that night in a little town called Batenrode, the major's group halted just where the road made a "Y" in the town. Immediately Private Schriber called out, "Good night Major, I'll see you in the morning."

"Eh? What's that? Where are you going," demanded the major.

"Well," replied Schriber, you promised me this morning that I could be off tonight."

"That's right. I did," acknowledged the officer. "But why this sudden desire to get away?"

"It's been quite a while since I've been home, sir," answered Schriber, and I thought I would stop in and see the old folks this evening."

"Where do you live Schriber," asked the major, and Schriber pointed across the "Y" in the street to a building, over the doorway of which, there was a sign, "P. Schriber—Bacherie." S. HERLOCK.

Good Judgment

After Belleau Wood a badly wounded Marine was propped up in bed with a very fine looking nurse in attendance. The Marine desired to write a letter to his wife and the nurse was taking his dictation, since the Marine was all bandaged up and could not very well do any writing. "Tell her," dictated the Marine, "that I'm not badly hurt and that this business will soon be over and I'll be home. That I am being treated fine and that the nurses here are all very old and ugly." "But we are not," interrupted the nurse. "I know that, moaned the Marine, "but put it in the letter anyhow." L. E. GENTRY.

Fini La Guerre

One night during March, 1919, I was roused from sleep by the tooting of a Ford beneath my window, the driver of which requested me to come down to Liberty Hall and help serve refreshments to incoming troops.

Liberty Hall was a big "Y" hut on dock 5, from which troops were embarking to go home. I hustled into my uniform, snatched some bread and coffee and was ready for work.

We filled the big counter with stacks of sweet chocolate, gum, cigarettes and cookies which we handed out to the men as the long lines filed past, and on to where they were given mugs of hot chocolate. The boys had had a long tramp from camp and were so exhausted that many of them dropped down on the floor wherever there was room. The surprising thing was that none showed the pleasure that it would seem they should feel at the prospect of going home, and very few spoke—perhaps their joy was too deep for words and they were afraid that they would wake up and find it only a dream.

All day they kept coming and far into the following night but we were so happy that 10,070 men, on six ships, were on their way to the U. S. A., that we enjoyed being tired and even our, not too comfortable or warm, sleeping quarters when we had finally finished.

How About Fares?

That the American is ever on the lookout for something that will not only relieve the monotony of routine matters, but will enable him to have a few moments of pleasure is a well established fact. Even in the grim game of war there are moments of fun and real pleasure.

During the hostilities of the recent war the Germans had been forced to retreat very quickly, and there was not sufficient time to notify the various units in the rear.

The drive was progressing and the Americans were advancing with little opposition. Suddenly above the periodic bursts of rifle and machine gun fire, the high shrill whistle of a narrow-gauge locomotive was heard, and soon a German supply train came in view, and was well within the American lines before the mistake was realized. The three Germans forming the train crew surrendered immediately. And, as the job of fighting at that particular time was somewhat lax, and feeling the need of diversion from the strenuous duties of battle, a number of the American soldiers commandeered the narrow-gauge train and proceeded to have a regular "scenic railway" ride for a short period of time before continuing with the job in hand. You Pronounce It

They did use to tell us that the Kaiser never had a chance to win the war because the first American shell was fired by a red-headed left-hander. But most of us rather believe we were too fast for a nation that, in its shortest form, can describe an armored "tank" as a "schuetzengrabenvernichtungsa u t o-mobil." CLAY KEENE MILLER.

You Tell 'Em

When we landed in England in 1917, we were surprised to see many of the women working in overalls and doing practically every job of the men, who had gone to war. We were stationed at a camp just outside of Southampton and during the first day many of the boys managed to get by the M. P.'s and into the town. That evening after mess, these fellows were dolling up for the night and announcing their "dates."

One piped up, "You ought to see the pretty conductor I'm going out with tonight."

"That's nothing," replied one who liked his Scotch, "I've got a swell barmaid."

Over in another corner a little Irishman was making great preparations but saying nothing until I suggested that he must have a date with an alderman. "No, Johnny," he replied, "believe it or not, mine's a bricklayer."

Marine Engineer Wins 1930 Award

Jahncke Attends Event at Which Philadelphian Is Honored.

Winning the same honor for the second time in four years, Henry F. Schmidt, marine engineer of Philadelphia, was presented the annual award of the American Society of Naval Engineers at a banquet of the organization last night at the Willard Hotel.

With Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke as an honor guest, Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, U. S. Navy, as president of the Society, made the award, which is made for the outstanding marine achievement each year.

Mr. Schmidt, consulting engineer of the South Philadelphia works of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., won the award for his essay, "Theoretical and Experimental Study of Condenser Scoops," which was declared to have indicated means of effecting greater efficiencies and economies in operation of naval and merchant vessels. He was winner of the 1927 medal of the Society for his work in screw propeller experiments.

SMITH RECEIVERSHIP ACTION IS DEFERRED

NEW FIGHT INSTITUTED

Answering the suit for receivership filed recently in District Supreme Court, the F. H. Smith Co., through Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Rudolph H. Yeatman, yesterday advised the court that its offices are now located in the Equitable Trust Building at Wilmington, Del. The suit for receivership was filed by Miss Grace Cauldwell, of 1515 Oak street northwest, holder of a first mortgage bond on the Smith Building located at 818 Fifteenth street northwest.

Justice William Hitz deferred action on the petition for receivership pending a review of all pleadings in the case. In taking this action, Justice Hitz pointed out that collectors of the court are now receiving all moneys derived from the property and that bondholders will not suffer because of the delay in the appointment of a receiver.

Coincidentally the Freemont Corporation, by H. C. Maddux, its president, asked the court to remove the Smith Co. and the Columbia Trustee and Registrar Corporation, of Seat Pleasant, Md., as trustee and depository under a bond issue on the New Amsterdam Apartments, at 2701 Fourteenth street northwest, which is owned by the plaintiff corporation.

The suit is similar in practically every respect to the two filed Thursday by Maddux on behalf of the Cavalier Corporation, owner of the Cavalier Apartments, and the Properties Investment Corporation, owner of the Hamilton Hotel Property. Attorneys O'Brien & O'Brien, who filed those suits also appears for the new litigant.

The Smith Co., in its answer to Miss Cauldwell's suit, tells the court that no default has been made in any of the coupons from the bonds which matured April 14, 1930, and asserts that it has sufficient funds on hand with which to pay any which might have been dishonored when presented at New York where the company is involved in a temporary receivership.

In a separate answer to the same suit, the Central Trust Co. of Maryland asserts that it has paid all coupons of April interest that have been presented at its office at Frederick, Md. It also is asserted that checks have been received from the Smith Co. to be applied on the amortization payments called for in the bond issue.

CHILDREN'S SPRING CLOTHES.

DRESSING children during the variable weather of spring and autumn presents considerable difficulties. They have more skin surface per pound of weight than have adults, and, inconsequence, the effects of variation in atmospheric temperature are exaggerated. They eat more per pound of weight, and this necessitates greater heat radiation. They work harder when they play than a ditch digger does in his day's work. And during their long hours of repose they make but little heat.

These variables are best taken care of by changing the weight and texture of outer garments. On cold, windy days the outer garment should be of a close weave, throughout part of its thickness anyhow. The best arrangement is that of a coat made of sheepskin, with the hide side out. But one with the fur side out is practically as good. Two layered fabrics with one layer windproof are good. For cold days with not much wind more open weaves are better. For warmer days the fabrics should be lighter in weight, more open in weave, and the proportion of cotton to wool should be greater.

Some people insist that babies should wear a flannel or woolen abdominal binder on the theory that the abdomen is the region in which heat loss occurs most rapidly and that the organs contained therein are most harmed by chilling. An abdominal binder can well be worn by babies during the changeable and frequently chilly weather of midspring. On very disagreeable days even oldec children, say up to 5 years of age, can wear such a binder or jacket with advantage.

Winter woolens and flannels should be discarded in rather an early stage as warm weather approaches, warmth and protection being supplied by appropriate outer garments. Children go into the spring hungry for the growth principle of sunshine. Their stock of vitamins A and D are low. It is well that the color and texture of their clothing should be designed to admit sunlight and sun heat rather than to protect against it.

TREATING DEMENTIA PRECOX.

Miss R. writes:

1. Is dementia precox curable?
2. How can I learn how to train such a person to lead a useful life?
3. Where can I get any books telling how to train such a person?

REPLY.

1. In many cases it is curable in the sense that a person of that class may be trained to live comfortably at home and be a useful citizen.
2. You must learn that from your own physician or from experience in an institution.
3. I do not know of any books which give methods.

CONTINUE THE EXERCISE.

M. A. M. writes: Would it be proper to continue abdominal exercises, such as raising both legs to vertical position without bending down, during pregnancy? This exercise has done wonders for me, but I hesitate to continue.

REPLY.

You can continue this exercise with safety and with advantage.

GALLANT FOX CARRIES SANDE TO PREAKNESS TRIUMPH; NATS HAMMER OUT 14-TO-3 VICTORY OVER WHITE SOX

GOSLIN AND RICE HIT HOME RUNS IN ROUT OF CHISOX PITCHERS

Brown Tightens in Pinches Despite 13 Hits Yielded.

Henry Hammered for Six Runs in First Two Innings.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PILING up their biggest run-total of the year, with home-run clouts by Sam Rice and Goose Goslin featuring, the Nationals yesterday took advantage of Cleveland's defeat at the hands of the Athletics and, by hammering out a 14 to 3 victory over the White Sox, went into second place in the standing.

Should they repeat against the Sox this afternoon in the second game of the set, with the Indians reversing the verdict in Philadelphia, Johnson's team again will be heading the procession tonight.

It is an old story how the Nats turned in their victory, for, as has been the case so often this season, they gave the visitors a start and then caught and passed them—and how! As to hits, Lloyd Brown, who went the route for the home team in turning in his fourth 1930 victory, granted thirteen safeties, while the Nats garnered fifteen off the combined offerings of Frank (Dutch) Henry, former Giant southpaw, "Little Ed" Walsh and Cecil Patrick Caraway.

Nats Cluster Blows Opportunely.

There was a difference in when the clouts were made, however, and therein lies the tale of the natives' one-sided victory. Washington's blows were clustered at most opportune moments, while "Brownie" hurled one of those teasing kind of games. He simply loafed along after his mates had given him a lead, granting a hit or two occasionally and then, just when the visitors thought they were going to get a slice of cake, he slammed the cupboard door.

Rice, who has hit safely in every game in which he has played this season, brought his consecutive-game streak total to twenty when he crashed out his homer with two on in the second round. It was a drive which went to the corner of the field just to the left of the scoreboard. He was not satisfied with merely prolonging his streak, however, later cracking out two doubles, his blows being responsible for no less than five runs, which were more than the number needed to assure victory. Incidentally, the old-timer's record of three hits in four official trips to the tee sent him close to the top of the batting heap in the league.

Cronin Hits 2 Doubles And Single.

Joe Cronin, with three safeties, including two doubles, ran Rice a close second for stick honors, while Goslin, in addition to his third homer of the season, also with two on, made his presence felt with another single. Sammy West and Roy Spencer each tripled and singled, the work of this quintet practically representing the whole Washington attack.

As to the game itself, there was little to it after the first two innings. Brown got away badly and two allen runs were scored when Cissell led off with a double and scored on Reynolds' single, with the latter advancing on an out and denting the rubber when Jolley doubled. Brown then put on the brakes and performed brilliantly over the rest of the route, being aided by some fancy playing by his infield in particular. But for Buddie Myer's first error of the season with a double play in sight in the sixth, he would have set the enemy down scoreless in the last eight frames.

Meanwhile, the Nats retaliated with a three-run splurge in their half of the first, the result of a hit batsman, singles by Goslin and Myer, a double theft by this latter pair, and a one-shot by Cronin, which scored two. In the third, the Nats scored three more times just when it looked as though Henry would breeze through the round. With two out, Brown dropped a Texas League double near the foul-line in left, Loepp was given life on Kamm's bad peg of his grounder, and Rice then picked out this time for his round-tripper.

With one gone in the fourth, Spencer singled and, after Brown fanned, West scratched a safety past Cissell, Rice doubled Spencer home and Goslin then drove the ball high over the right-field barrier. This made the score 10 to 1, and to all intents and purposes ended the game, but it is a quaint old custom not to concede "putts" in baseball, and so the teams played out the string, the Nats adding four more to their total, while the White Sox were adding one.

Shires, Tamed, Still "Kick" of White Sox Club

ART SHIRES, greater and grander than ever, is still the big kick of the Chicago White Sox—perhaps not from a mechanical standpoint, but certainly as regards color—and fans yesterday, especially the large ladies' day gathering, seemed to center their full attention upon the work of the chewer of the world's largest cud of tobacco.

Shires' color on the field, however, is rather drab, compared to his sartorial elegance when off from work, and those who want to see what the well-dressed man will wear this summer will find it worth while to get to the Georgia Avenue Park early this afternoon to see the great one arrive. Yesterday he was dressed in a light green suit, with shirt, necktie and hat to match. Nobby spats adorned his shoetops, while the whole general effect was topped off by a cane being jauntily and nonchalantly hung over his arm.

Despite all of the publicity given Shires for his so-called fighting in professional rings during the past off-season, he has quit much of his "popping off" among his mates and really is quite popular with them. He also has quit the bad habit he had last year of "talking back" to the fans, Manager Donie Bush declaring that he has found him a well-behaved athlete and one easy to get along with.

That he is anything but "yellow" is shown by the fact that, although following an operation on his right hip he was ordered by the club physician to lay off for ten days or two weeks, he actually remained idle only a couple of days and is now playing under a handicap which would keep 99 out of 100 players on the bench.

Shires got two hits yesterday.

Shires and the Chisox will be the Nats' guests in the second game of the current series this afternoon. Donie Bush is expected to give Ted Lyons the pitching assignment, while Manager Walter Johnson last night was undecided upon his starter, intimating that it might be Ad Liska, the young underhanded tosser.

CAGLE PLANS TO LEAVE ARMY

named on the Associated Press All-America teams of 1928 and 1929.

Possibly 2,000,000 fans, scattered from the Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Mass., to Soldier Field in Chicago, and the Stanford Bowl at Palo Alto, Calif., have watched the Louisiana redhead run up miles of yardage gained through spectacular forward passing and brilliant open field dashes. He played before the greatest crowd in football history when the Army tied Navy 21-to-21 before 115,000 at Chicago in 1926 and starred with Harry Wilson in the defeat of Navy at the Polo Grounds in New York in 1927, the last encounter of the two service elevens before the severance of football relations.

Cagle is the fourth football captain and All-American star to resign from the Army in the past thirteen years. His predecessors were John J. McEwan, now head coach at Holy Cross; Ed Garbisch and Mortimer E. "Bud" Sprague, captain in 1928. The charge that Army football stars left the service early after graduation figured prominently in the Naval Academy's reasons for breaking relations with Army after the contest in 1928.

Expresses Regret in Statement.

Cagle's statement follows:

"It is with considerable regret that I shall submit my resignation to the War Department after graduation in order to accept two positions in civil life, one as football coach at Mississippi A. and M. and the other with a large commercial house. The combined salary is considerable more than the pay of a major general, a rank that I would, indeed, be most fortunate to attain after 30 or 35 years of service.

"My pay as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army would be $125 a month plus 60 cents a day rations allowance. This means that for many years I would live in the state of genteel poverty. In justice to myself I feel that my best interests lie in leaving the service."

"While a bill has been introduced in Congress to increase Army pay, I understand there is little, if any, possibility of its becoming a law within the near future. My observation is that the scale of living which Army officers are required to maintain is far beyond the present junior officers' pay. If there were any prospect of the pay bill being adopted, I would not consider for a moment submitting my resignation.

"I realize my indebtedness to the Government for the training and education I have received at West Point and if my resignation is accepted it is my intention to immediately apply for a commission either in the organized reserve or the National Guard. In this way my services will always be at the disposal of the Government.

"On entering the military academy I signed an agreement, as do all cadets, to remain for four years at West Point and a subsequent four years in the regular Army. The War Department, however, during the past few years, has accepted resignations of recent graduates when unusual circumstances exist. My financial prospects in civil life are so far superior to anything I can ever obtain in the Army that I believe they constitute unusual circumstances."

Shorey Wins Woodmont Honors

Beats Hunter, 3 and 2, in First Flight Golf Final.

Winner, Leading 4 Up at Turn, Turns in Easy Victory.

JOHN C. SHOREY, Bannockburn, and former District junior champion, yesterday won the Woodmont Club invitation golf tournament, defeating J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, on the sixteenth green, 3 and 2, in the final round. The match was, in some degree, a slaughter of the innocents, for Shorey, who is an experienced as well as a capable golfer, has been prominent in local competitions for many years, while Hunter, who is only 18 years old, reached a final round yesterday for the first time in his young life.

In fact, although he won the second sixteen at Congressional last year and was winner of the consolation in the first flight at Indian Spring, he has never before reached the final round in any event and has never survived the first round in any championship flight. Notwithstanding his youth and inexperience, he made a gallant fight against Shorey yesterday and demonstrated that his ability as a golfer could not be questioned.

Although Hunter won the first hole with a par four when Shorey missed his second shot, the first nine proved to be a walkaway for the Bannockburn golfer.

Hunter 4 Down at End Of First Nine.

At the end of the nine, Hunter was four down, losing or halving every hole after the first, one of the halved shots being the second, when he played a fine recovery shot when his ball was lying in the rough a club's length from a tree. The playing would not have been so emphatically one-sided if Hunter could have kept his drives in the fairway.

On the contrary, the rough seemed to have a fatal attraction for his ball and the rough on the Woodmont course ought to be spelled in capital letters. On every hole on the first nine Hunter was compelled to extricate his ball from the rough and wiry grass, besides which he was misjudging his approaches, generally overplaying the cup and thus leaving him an almost impossible putt even to secure a half.

Two stymies figured in the first nine, one each on the seventh and ninth holes, and both having been laid by Shorey, were Hunter's disadvantage.

Shorey Wins Match With Birdie on 16th.

When Shorey won the tenth hole with a birdie 3, he was 5 up, but, taking advantage of Shorey's errors, Hunter won the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth in succession. Shorey was then only two up, but with the fifteenth halved in par 4s, Shorey won the sixteenth with a birdie 3 and the match was over. Throughout Shorey played with machine regularity, with comparatively few errors. With his nine played in 37 and with six holes on the second nine, excluding the thirteenth, where a second shot in the ditch compelled him to pick up, played in one under even 4s, his card would have been a tough morsel for any player. The cards:

Shorey went into the final round by defeating Clarence B. Murphy, Congressional Club champion, the crucial point in the match being the twelfth hole, when Shorey, then 1 up, scored a birdie 3 for a win, giving himself a margin which Murphy could not overcome. Hunter defeated Max Weyl, Woodmont, in the semifinal round, Weyl failing to exhibit the brilliant game which had won him victories against Harry G. Pitt, Manor and Charles W. Cole, jr., Indian Spring, on the first day of match play. Weyl was 3 down at the fifteenth and although he won the sixteenth, lost when the seventeenth was halved.

At the conclusion of the tournament the prizes were presented by

A's Hammer Holloway, Erasing Lead of Tribe

Philadelphia, May 9 (A.P.).—Clubbing Ken Holloway almost at will the Philadelphia Athletics strengthened their hold on first place today by taking the opening game with the Cleveland Indians by a score of 9 to 4. Lefty Grove, who went the distance for the champions, won his fourth game of the year against no defeats.

Jimmy Foxx wiped out Cleveland's 2-to-0 lead and sent the Mackmen ahead for the balance of the game when he hit his sixth home run of the season off Holloway with two men on base in the third inning.

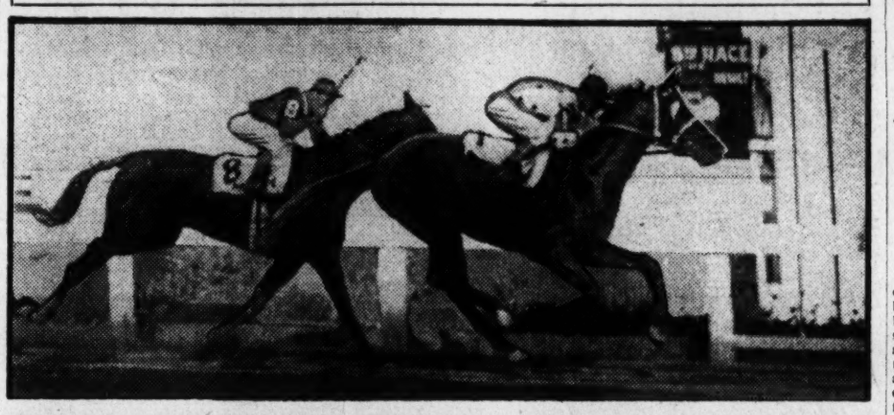
SANDE GETTING FAVORITE HOME AT FINISH



NEGRO GAINS TITLE FROM FIELDS

Welterweight Crown to Thompson in Upset Victory.

OLYMPIA ARENA, Detroit, Mich., May 9 (A.P.).—Young Jack Thompson, Oakland, Calif., Negro, won the world's welterweight championship, by defeating Jackie Fields, the title-holder in a 15-round battle tonight. At the end of the fight Referee Elmer "Slim" McClelland unhesitatingly raised the Negro's hand.

The victory was a startling upset, as Fields, who had twice previously defeated Thompson, entered the ring a 2-to-1 favorite.

The Negro carried the fight to Fields and the champion quickly tired under the roaring pace after the tenth round. Thompson is the first negro to win the welterweight championship in 29 years.

Joe Wolcott was the last Negro titleholder, winning the championship from Rube Ferns, in Toronto, Ont., in 1901.

Cubs Leading League; Nose Out Giants, 6-5

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs, National League champions last season, reached the top for the first time this year today by defeating the New York Giants, 6 to 5, in the opening game of their series. The Giants dropped to second place.

A three-run rally in the eighth inning enabled the Cubs to win after they had trailed almost from the start. With two out, Hub Pruett suddenly blew up and gave three successive hits, two of them doubles by Hartnett and Stephenson, for the three runs. The Giants had taken the lead in the second, when they nicked Hal Carlson for three runs.

GALLANT FOX TAKES PREAKNESS IN GAME FINISH

Sande Pilots Favorite to Victory

Takes Colt Back at Start and Makes Up Ground Easily.

Crack Brigade Beaten 3-4 of a Length in Thrilling Finish.

trouble at the clubhouse turn, barely missed interference, saw a hole in the field on the back stretch and swept like a cyclone, second to Crack Brigade at the stretch turn, head and head at the eighth pole and was never thereafter in doubt of the result.

The eleven lined up at the start with comparatively little trouble. Armageddon was somewhat fractious, but the field was at the post only about six minutes. At the break Gallant Fox, from his No. 1 post position, next to the rail, broke smartly; but he lacked early foot, and the ten others outside of him swung past and around so that the first rush down past the grand stand found Gallant Fox securely pocketed on the fence behind Tetrachal, Crack Brigade, Sweet Sentiment and Gold Brook and fenced in from the outside by most of the others.

Loses More Ground Around Turn.

Going around the clubhouse turn, Sande lost more ground keeping his horse out of trouble, and when straightened out in the backstretch there was only one horse back of him. Then began the most electrifying dash that has been seen in Maryland in many a day. Finding a hole here and a gap there, Sande snaked his way through the field and was lying third at the far turn. As he was going through and past many other horses his colors were concealed, and there were few who knew the great riding he was doing until the white silks and red spots appeared third at the far turn.

Armageddon also made a game chase, but a hopeless one. The Man o' War colt wore himself out at the barrier. Third though he was, Gallant Fox still had his race to win for the two in front were Tetrachal and Crack Brigade—the latter considered his chief competitor. And they were several lengths ahead. The short swing around the bend found Tetrachal at the end of his string. He dropped back fast. But Crack Brigade was booming on as strong and fast as ever. At the top of the stretch Gallant Fox was second, but there still was daylight between the two.

Gallant Fox Runs on Own Courage.

Coming to the outside Sande still let Gallant Fox run on his own courage and the Belair color bearer ranged alongside. George Ellis on Crack Brigade went to the whip, used all the driving skill of which he is possessed, and Crack Brigade held the others even. Again it looked as if Gallant Fox was beaten despite his courageous dash.

But Sande called on his mount at the exact moment and on he came, never faltering a stride. Crack Brigade could not stand the strain and gave, just a trifle, but he gave. That was right in front of the stand and hats, programs and people were in the air—the last-named jumping up and down in an effort to get a fleeting glimpse of the finish over the heads of those in front. The two swept over the line lapped on each other, three-quarters of a length apart, but the winner was going away and Crack Brigade was a tired if gallant horse.

Meantime back of the two which were the cynosure of all eyes things were happening. Walter J Salmon's filly, Snowflake, had attempted to follow Gallant Fox when he had pushed up the backstretch so swiftly. She could not hold to his pace but she did pass the others and when she reached the stretch she had much in reserve. There was no chance of her closing ground on the two battling for the lead, but she held third safe from Michigan Boy, a good horse.

Michigan Boy was raced through the winter and won the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans and is to be sent on to the Kentucky Derby.

Fast Pace Shown by Fractional Time.

How fast this pace was may be judged from the first quarter which was run in 0:23 3-5 seconds. The leader passed the half in 0:48 and the six furlong mark in 1:13 3-5. The time at the mile was 1:39, fast on anybody's race track in a test of this kind, and the final time for the mile and three-sixteenths was 2:00 3-5. Since the distance has been at a mile and three-sixteenths only one horse has run the Preakness faster—that was Victorian in 1928.

When the horses returned to the scales, the Movietone had snapped and recorded the titanic struggle of horses and men. In the enthusiastic reception to the gallant horse and the intrepid rider, little heed was then given the losers, but few will fail to remember the flashing early speed of Tetrarchal, the game effort of Crack Brigade and the strong finish of the only filly in the race, little Snowflake. She fought it out all the way. The courage and dash of Doc Cassidy's Crack Brigade will never be forgotten, and there will be a lot of respect for the tireless second horse in this battle, for he went out and killed off the leaders and then battled the winner to the last ditch.

"He's Licked!" Is Cry From Stands.

While Trainer Fitzsimmons and Jockey Sande may not have been worried concerning the outcome, it may well be said that they were a minority of two out of the 40,000. The cry "he's licked," or "they've got him," or something similar rang from end to end of the stand or clubhouse. That Gallant Fox proved otherwise is the greatest testimony to his class and courage.

The Woodlawn Vase replica was presented to William Woodward, owner of the Blair stud and breeder of the winner, by Gov. Ritchie.

The crowd was estimated at 40,000 It was hot weather, and there was much milling about and pulling and hauling, but the throng was good natured. The high and the low touched elbows, cheered their favorites and bet on them.

CABMEN OPEN TOMORROW.

A hard-fought battle is expected tomorrow when the Diamond Cab Co.'s Nine hooks up with its traditional rival, the Saks Co. Team at 1 p. m. on the East Ellipse diamond. McCorkle and Winerich will bear the brunt of the burden in the Cabmen's debut.

SUN FALCON FLIES HOME TO VICTORY IN THE SECOND.

SUN FALCON, permitted to race under slight reserve while forcing the pace, went to GNOME BOY without effort when approaching the far turn, drew into a clear lead, but was severely punished nearing the end to withstand GNOME BOY. Latter dropped back midway of the back stretch, was put to punishment and closed with good courage. TAIL SPIN swung to the outside the last quarter mile and closed resolutely. SETA entered contention, but lunged badly in the final issue. ROOTEE stopped when caught by the winner. RED CROSS SISTER had speed in spots.

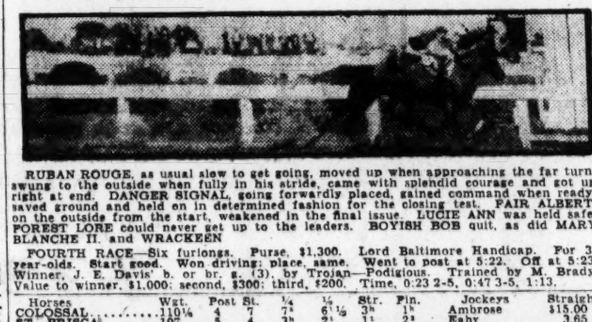
RUBAN ROUGE PASSES DANGER SIGNAL TO COP THIRD.



RUBAN ROUGE, as usual slew to get going, moved up when approaching the far turn, swung to the outside when fully in his stride, came with splendid courage and got up right at end. DANGER SIGNAL, going forwardly placed, gained command when ready, saved ground and held on in determined fashion for the closing test. FAIR ALBERT, on the outside from the start, weakened in the final issue. LUCIE ANN was held safe. FOREST LORE could never get up to the leaders. BOYISH BOB quit, as did MARY BLANCHE II. and WRACKEEN.

COLOSSAL'S HEAD BIG FACTOR IN DECIDING FOURTH.

COLOSSAL, outrun early, responded willingly when placed to a drive, came with good speed for the closing test and, in a fast finish, was up in the last sixteenth. ST. PRISCA, following close up, displaced the leaders at the stretch turn, but could not resist the winner's rush. ZIDA, going forwardly and under stout urging, showed a good test. CHLO BOY had splendid speed early, but tired when the real issue came. NED O. broke well, dropped far back, moved up on the outside, but met with repeated interference during the closing stages. BATTLING ON stopped badly.

ERA OPENS NEW ERA FOR MISS BOWMAN'S STABLE IN SIXTH.

ERA, avoiding interference at first turn, reached TURKEY'S NECK midway of the back stretch, slipped through on the inside to take command and lasted to withstand DERONDA. Latter, not hurried early, finished with good courage when securing racing room next the inner rail at the end. TURKEY'S NECK, rated in front, held on well when put to a drive. TONY THE CLOWN went evenly. IMMORTAL weakened under pressure. HOMELIKE suffered from bumping at the first turn and never recovered to offer serious contention.

CHARLES THE FIRST FIRST OVER FINISH IN DAY'S FINAL.

CHARLES I., outrun to the first turn, secured clear passage when moving into the lead on the inside at the half-mile pole, opened up at will thereafter and finished with much to spare. FRANCES ST. L., going forwardly, could not threaten the winner. LIGHT VIEW worked his way up slowly, but was held safe. EUPHRATES closed a big gap. DOWAGER tired when the real test came. FRIEDJOF NANSEN quit early.

BUSINESS NINE DEFEATS WESTERN IN SERIES, 18-9

Stenogs Pack 14-Hit Punch To Score

Victors Turn 8 Walks Into Runs to Win 2d Straight.

Garner Holds Western; Loftus and Frat Star at Bat.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

CONTINUING the hitting characteristic of of its play all season, Business High School's Baseball Team slugged its way into first place in the Interhigh League yesterday afternoon when it scored in every inning except two, to wallop the Western Nine, 18 to 9, at the Central High School Stadium.

Although neither team presented a pitcher with even a fair amount of ability, Milton Singman and Jimmy Garner, of Business, were not as free with their walks as was Tom Poore, Western's starting pitcher, and received better support afield. Poore's wildness got him into trouble at the very outset when he walked the first three batters to face him, each scoring in the first inning, while of the nine other passes granted by him, five were turned into runs.

Schneider's Homer Features.

The only outstanding feature of an otherwise loose game was contributed by Clayton "Andy" Schneider, last year's Western second baseman who last fall transferred to Business to play against his old teammate at that position yesterday. Schneider did plenty all afternoon to turn back his former pals, exhibiting one of the classiest individual fielding performances that has yet been seen in the series, and poling the only home-run of the game.

The new Stenog handled nine chances without an error with one of them robbing Quincy Owens of a sure double. A ball labeled two bases was bounding over First Baseman Chase's head in the seventh inning, when from nowhere, Schneider bounced up to grab the ball and flag the runner.

Until the seventh inning Business did not fail to score in any frame, being aided by walks and alien errors when not getting its own hits. Several of the Western players slipped up on the easiest possible chances, each one proving costly when the runner eventually scored.

Business Gets 3-Run Lead In Opener.

Business started off well by scoring three times in the first inning, only to have Western come within one of tying the score when Loftus' fumble of Albert's roller permitted Oliver and Owens to trickle across the plate after two were out. However, the Stenogs put the game on ice for once and for all in the following frame, when three hits, five walks and an error gave them six runs. The entire Business Team batted around during the tally, Finley, Jacobson and Schneider each appearing twice at the tee.

Alexandria High Beats George Mason, 11-7

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., May 9.—The old squeeze play, worked twice in the tenth inning, gave Alexandria High School a 11-7 victory over its traditional rival, George Mason, in a great uphill battle waged here today. With the score tied and the bases full, two bunts completely upset the George Mason infield and four runs in rapid succession crossed the plate.

HOMER WINS GAME FOR W. & L.

Richardson's Drive Is Decisive as V. P. I. Bows, 3-2.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., May 9.—All Lexington is singing a famous Yale tune tonight, but the words are changed. "Goola, goola," "Goola, goola," are the words surging from husky throats of the Washington and Lee men this time; and they in some way let "Goola Goola" Richardson, Generals' right fielder, know this part of the world deeply appreciates the eleventh-inning home run which downed V. P. I. here this afternoon, 3-2, and what a homer to climax one of the most frenzied ball games played on Wilson Field in many a year.

For ten innings two pitchers, Leigh Williams for Washington and Lee, and Murden for Tech, had put up a remarkable exhibition of moundsmanship, and for just as many innings two packed bleachers had pleaded for just one more run.

Williams allowed but four hits, while the Generals nicked Murden twice as many times. Tech scored in the first after two were down and again in the sixth after the first two batters had fallen. Washington and Lee came back in the eighth with one run, and in the ninth with the tally which tied the game.

Richardson Pounds Ball.

Then tenth passed, and Tech went down in the eleventh. Then in the last of this frame, with one away, "Goola Goola" stepped to the plate and drove one almost out of the park. He came home standing up.

Today's game jarred V. P. I.'s hopes for a Tri-State League pennant. The championship game of the loop will be played here tomorrow when Tech meets V. M. I. The defeat today gave a one-game edge to the Lexington Cadets, and "Goola Goola" meanwhile takes the matter as all in a day's work. Big, lazy-looking, bashful, the hero of the hour slipped from the dressing room to his eating place, where he happily consumed a steak smothered in onions. But the happiest man of all tonight was Capt. Dick Smith, Washington and Lee coach, genial, hard-working, sincere, the veteran of many campaigns has sat by and seen his team toss away more than one game this year; and if the facts were really known, the team won today for Washington and Lee, of course, but for Dick Smith, first of all.

Unbeaten Virginia Golf Team Meets W. & M.

Charlottesville, Va., May 9.—Virginia's undefeated golf team has a match tomorrow afternoon with the William and Mary four, holders of the Old Dominion intercollegiate championship. Wilcox, playing No. 1 on this team, was State intercollegiate champion last year. This match will be played at the Farmington Country Club course, just west of the university.

The Cavalier golfers, Capt. Loftus Kern, Burkett and Miller, have high hopes of defeating the visitors from Williamsburg and of going on to take the State collegiate title for 1930.

Bridgewater Defeated By Washington College

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., May 9.—In a Garrison finish, Washington College nosed out Bridgewater College here this afternoon by a score of 6 to 5 in a baseball game bristling with hair-trigger plays. With the tally 5 to 4 and the Virginians on the long end, Plummer singled for Washington in the ninth inning, Baker followed with another safe tally sending Plummer to third. Baker went to second on a steal. Cupp, catching for the visitors, threw wild, letting Plummer across the plate, and when Kagey at short threw over third base in an effort to stop a score, Baker ran home on the play with the winning run.

In the fourth frame Fifer at third pulled a thriller when he stopped Alexander's sure hit with his bare hand along the base line and threw Baker out at second preventing an impending Eastern Shore scoring rally. Cupp, for Bridgewater, and Carey, for Washington, pitched well throughout.

Rockville High Nine Downs Takoma, 13-8

The Rockville High School Nine yesterday defeated the Takoma-Silver Spring High tossers, 13 to 8, in a free scoring fray. Outclassed in the early rounds, the Rockville batsmen got familiar with the offerings of Day and came from behind. A five-run rally in the seventh put the winners in front and they clinched the verdict by adding a pair of tallies in the ninth.

Markland, hurling for Rockville, was a victim of his mates' many miscues in the early rounds. He finished strong, fanning 10. He was wild in the early rounds, but settled down and blanked the opposition in the last four innings.

Louisville, Ky., May 9 (A.P.).—The Churchill Downs spring meet, opening tomorrow with the Clark Handicap, $10,000 added, as the principal attraction, will give the spectators a line on several Kentucky Derby eligibles entered in the sixth race, a 6½-furlong affair. The Clark is at a mile and one-sixteenth, and Busy was the only Derby eligible entered.

Six of the seven entries in the sixth race, however, are Derby eligibles, Alcibiades, Roll 'Em Down, Stock Market, Prince Atheling, High Foot and Ladrone, with Brother Rank, the other entrant not a Derby eligible, composing the field

VILLANOVA'S NINE ROUTS C. U., 18-5

Peifer in Star Role for Cards With Homer and Single.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Devin on the mound for Catholic University faced Villanova College in real hitting mood and was nicked for 21 hits as the local nine crashed out an 18-to-5 victory here today.

The Wildcats crossed the plate in every inning but the eighth, netting eleven markers in the first four sessions.

The 21 safeties were good for 35 bases, 3 being home runs, 1 a triple and 3 doubles.

Peifer, Catholic University center fielder, stole a little of the Villanova thunder in the second frame. The first man up in the inning, he smashed out a home run to center field. He also connected for a single later.

Hillen Allows 6 Hits.

Hillen, star Villanova pitcher, limited the Washington visitors to six safeties, and Gioffre also registered two besides Peifer. Frankovic clouted a double and Marucci a single to complete the hits.

The home run by Peifer was the only Catholic University tally in the second frame. Two more markers were added in the fifth. After Gioffre singled, two errors and a sacrifice fly by Flanagan followed.

Frankovic's double and Gioffre's single in the sixth brought in the fourth counter, and in the ninth chukker the visitors registered the final run without a hit. Marucci walked and scored on McAndrew's wild throw.

Eddie Melanson had a homer and a triple for the home nine. De Luca smacked out four hits, and Flanagan, McAndrew and Gazella three each. Morgan and Gazella each hit one home run.

Wake Forest Beaten By All-Marines, 7-4

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., May 9.—The Wake Forest College Team was defeated by the All-Marine Team here today, 7 to 4. The Marines scored four runs in the second for a three-run lead, but the collegians tied the score in the sixth only to see the Sea Soldiers forge to the front again in their half of this inning when, with two out and Billingsley on third as a result of a walk and two outs, Tolan hit a bounder toward third, the ball taking a wild hop over Benton's head and rolling to left field, scoring the runner and allowing Tolan to reach first safely. Then Gorman picked out a slow one and hit to deep center field for a homer.

Rowing Heads Program At Annapolis Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 9.—After final workouts this afternoon held under a broiling sun, but favorable conditions of water, three sets of rowing crews were resting tonight, keyed to a high pitch for the regatta to be staged on Severn River tomorrow afternoon. The program will bring together eight-oared shells of the Naval Academy and Syracuse, among the oldest college rivals on the water. They will clash in varsity, junior varsity and freshmen brushes, all over the Henley distance of one and five-sixteenths miles. Added interest centers in the freshmen race by reason of the entrance of the crack Hun School Crew of Princeton, winners of the Henley Regatta in its last season on the Schuylkill.

The races will be the outstanding contests of a "red letter" athletic day here. Two Navy teams are on the road, the field and track group having gone to Columbus, Ohio, for a meet with Ohio State's stars, while the lacrosse team will clash with Lehigh at South Bethlehem, Pa.

The other home contests will be varsity baseball with Wake Forest College; rifle shoot with District of Columbia National Guard; Plebes' tennis with University of Maryland freshmen; baseball with Severn School; triangular track meet with Maryland freshmen and McKinley Tech as other participants, and lacrosse with Maryland freshmen.

Virginia's "Big Four" Meet For State Track Title Today

3 Events Scheduled With W. & L. Bringing Championship Indoor Team to Blacksburg; Records Threatened.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., May 9.—Virginia Poly made final plans tonight as host to Washington and Lee, Virginia, and V. M. I. in the second annual State track meet of the Old Dominion's four Southern Conference schools. Tomorrow, 187 track and field men of varsity and freshman teams representing the four institutions will put on the biggest cinder event in the history of Miles Stadium, home of the Tech runners.

Varsity and freshman championships are in the offing. Mile relay titles of the Big Four are also on the card between Washington and Lee, V. M. I. and V. P. I., Virginia having declined an invitation to enter these events. A heavy schedule of 30 events will get under way at 1 o'clock. Preliminaries to four of these include three heats prior to finals in the dashes and two heats for each of the hurdle events.

Stadium Records Threatened.

A constellation o fthe first magnitude on Virginia tracks is expected to write new records into the history of Miles Stadium. A heavy assault by Washington and Lee's Southern indoor champs will be led by Capt. Sandifer in the dashes, and Speer and Finklestein in the hurdles. Bailey, versatile General athlete, is hailed as a great discuss heaver, and Stevens is strong in the shot put.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB SLIGHTLY; DULL DAY

Scores of Issues Gain 1 to 9 Points as 3,000,000 Shares Are Traded.

BUSINESS STILL SPOTTY

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—The stock market slithered along on slippered feet today, content to plod in a narrow rut but finding itself on generally higher ground at the end of its uneventful five-hour journey.

In sharp contrast to last Monday's 8,000,000 share turnover, the volume for the day barely exceeded 3,000,000 shares, the smallest total in two months. Many large operators, apparently believing that the market was due for a rest, left town early on an extended week-end vacation.

Trading was almost entirely in the hands of the professionals. Bears took pot shots at a few stocks, notably United Aircraft and Warner Brothers Pictures, but their ammunition was propelled by light powder charges and the targets were not seriously damaged. Pool operations by the bulls in the food, farm implement and some of the amusement shares, as well as in a few rails, met with moderate success, although there was little effort to extend the moves beyond a couple of points and profit-taking in the final hour cut closing prices from the day's top levels. A half dozen issues, including Standard Oil of New York, Studebaker, General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Kroger Grocery and American Tobacco, selling ex-dividend, more than made up the amount automatically pared from their quotation.

Steel Executives Optimistic.

Steel executives attending the regular meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute reported general satisfaction with the current trend of their industry and view the immediate future optimistically. James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, described current business as "very good," while Charles M. Schwab, Bethlehem's chairman, predicted an improvement in the second quarter over the first, as well as a marked upturn in the last half of the year.

Financial circles anticipate a rather large reduction in the unfilled tonnage of U. S. Steel, to be announced at noon tomorrow. Activity in the industry as a whole has shown a slight recession this week, although some of the officials attending today's institute session said there had been a recovery in the past few days.

Weekly business reviews said the general business picture was still spotty. Dun's characterized the "present situation as one in which retarding forces are present in more than ordinary degree, hindering the movement toward recovery and delaying the broad advance which it is confidently believed will ultimately develop." Bradstreet's labeled the state of trade as "fair to quiet," asserting that a close examination of the trend disclosed "an ebb and flow within the various lines * * * which perhaps contains the germs of future improvement." In this connection the survey mentioned a warm-weather improvement in retail clothing trade, the active buying of steel pipe, increased orders for automobile steel and gains in chain store sales for April.

Money Markets Ease.

The money markets eased. Demand loans were firm at 3 per cent and there was less money available outside at concessions from the stock exchange rate, presumably because lenders were becoming discouraged with current levels. Time money drifted lower and there was a cut of one-eighth of 1 per cent in long-term bankers' bills.

Stocks featured in the day's dealings included Loew's, which touched the new 1930 high of 94¼; Borden's up 2 points to a new high; Goodyear Tire, up 4; and Southern Railway, up 2⅜ net to 115, which contrasted with its recent low of 101⅛. United Aircraft, whose earnings statement is expected soon, sank 4 points, recovering slightly. Motor, copper and oil shares were well supported.

United States Steel, after dipping below Thursday's close, finished with a net gain of 1½. American Tobacco B rose 9. Advances of 1 to 3 appeared in American Smelting, Atchison, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Yellow Truck, General Motors, United Carbon, Hudson Motors, International Harvester, New York Central, Public Service of New Jersey, Standard Oil of Kansas, Sun Oil, Standard Oil of New York and Granby Copper. Manhattan Electric Supply, whose recent market action is being investigated by State authorities, dropped 5 points to another new low.

Commodities were irregular. Wheat closed fractionally higher. Cotton was steady, 2 to 7 points lower, sugar eased, but coffee was firm. Corn sagged.

Foreign currencies showed an easy trend. The Spanish peseta declined 7 points on news of political disturbances.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Early declines under further scattering near month liquidation and selling of new crop positions promoted by reports of showers in the Eastern belt, were followed by partial recoveries in cotton here today. After selling off from 16.51 to 16.25 July closed steady 16.42 while the new October contract rallied from 14.85 to 14.65 and closed 14.74. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 8 points on overnight buying orders brought in by the firmer tone of late yesterday, while there also have been a little local buying on reports that recent storms had done some damage and delayed crop preparations in the South.

The demand was quite readily supplied, however, with selling encouraged by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, and the outlook for showers in the Eastern belt which has been complaining of drouthy conditions. Old crop positions were again relatively weak, owing partly no doubt, to further undoing of old straddles which involved sales of July against purchases of later deliveries.

May sold off to 16.23 with the old crop showing net declines of 19 to 23 points at the lowest while October and later deliveries sold 16 points to 20 points net lower on the Eastern belt rain news as reflected by the detailed weather reports. Offerings tapered off at the decline, however, and the greater part of the losses were recovered later on covering.

May rallied to 16.41 and closed at 16.35, while the new October closed at 14.65. The closing quotation for May was 7 points under the price of July and 170 points above the new October compared with a difference of 172 points at the close of the previous day.

Additional May notices representing about 4,200 bales of cotton were reported in circulation this morning and may have led to some selling early, but they were evidently stopped, presumably by the same interests who had been taking up cotton since the beginning of the month.

There were reiterated reports of cotton coming here for distribution from abroad, but the opinion was expressed in some quarters that the reduction in the near month premium might check the movement. Certificated stocks as reported today amounted to 390,000 bales at designated points. Liverpool cables said that continental buying there had been supplied by realizing and hedging against outside growths. Port receipts today 12,583; United States port stocks, 1,640,076; exports, 3,140, making 6,360,210 so far this season.

RAIL BONDS TOUCH HIGH 1930 LEVELS

Carrier Liens and Foreign Issues Lead Markets' General Rally.

MONEY RATES DECLINE

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—The bond market moved slightly higher today under the leadership of the foreign issues and the domestic rails.

Several carrier liens registered the highest prices of the year as time money again eased. Another favorable credit development was a further reduction in the rates on longer term bankers acceptances. Share feature bonds, particularly the convertibles, strengthened under the influence of a stronger stock market.

The foreign list showed definite signs of pulling up from the base to which it had been anchored for several days. Many European loans displayed the best activity of the week on reports that the terms of the German annuities loan had been completed. The United States is expected to take about $80,000,000 of the $300,000,000 total, which will probably be offered at 95. The coupon rate, according to unofficial reports, is to be 5½ per cent.

Several of the high grade rails moved up more than 1 point, and new highs were established in the secondary group. Frisco 4½s, the most active rail bond, gained ⅜, and Oregon, Warren 4s, Southern Railway General 4s, Texas Pacific First 5s, and Wabash Second 5s gained from 1 to 2 points. Missouri Pacific convertible 5½s climbed into new high ground at 99½, up 1½. Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington 5s also established new highs for the year.

Several others equalled the high mark for 1930, notably Pennsylvania 4½s.

Northern States Powers 5s advanced ⅞ to 102¼, equalling the 1930 high. Fluctuations in the industrial group ranged from 1 to 5 points. Havana Electric 5½s dropped 3 points to a new low at 54; Porto Rico American Tobacco 6s fell off 4 points and Wickwire 7s lost 5.

In sympathy with the stock market American Telephone 4½s, Atchison 4½s and Baltimore & Ohio 4½s moved upward. Loew 6s with warrants gained 2 points. Warner Brothers pictures 6s ended the day fractionally lower.

Japanese bonds were active in anticipation of the offerings of a new low expected next week. French 7s were in good demand, close to their year's high. German and Belgian governments also advanced.

BANK TO CELEBRATE 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Anacostia Concern First Transacted Business in Drug Store.

20 PER CENT DIVIDENDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Anacostia Bank, celebrating its twentieth anniversary next week, had its unique inception in a drug store. In the summer of 1905 George O. Walson, now president of Liberty National Bank, then treasurer of the Union Savings Bank, conceived the idea of stationing himself of evenings in the drug store of George B. Bury at Nichols avenue and W street in Anacostia for the purpose of collecting deposits for his institution.

His scheme met with instant success, and in the following year a building was erected and the Anacostia branch of the Union Savings Bank was formally opened in September, 1906, under the management of Maurice Otterback, a note teller of the National Capital Bank and now president of the Anacostia Bank.

A continuance of the branch's early success prompted those interested in it to obtain on May 5, 1910, a West Virginia charter for the "People's Home Bank of Anacostia." Immediately after, these interests entered negotiations with the Union Savings Bank and purchased the subsidiary interest and the building housing the branch, changing its title to the present one, The Anacostia Bank.

Became Independent in 1910.

The bank opened as an independent institution May 10, 1910, with George O. Walson, president; Dr. M. M. Moffatt, vice president, and Maurice Otterback, cashier. Dr. R. A. Pyles headed the executive committee and Adolphus Gude, George S. King, J. J. Clennon and J. Frank Campbell in addition to the officers became the bank's first directors. Mr. Walson retired as president in 1916 and was succeeded by Mr. Gude, who resigned in 1918. Mr. Gude was succeeded by Mr. Otterback.

On December 2, 1912, after only eighteen months operation, the bank paid its first dividend at the rate of 8 per cent per annum. The rate was increased in 1921 to 10 per cent and in 1923 to 12 per cent. The initial capitalization was $25,000 and deposits at the close of business the first day totaled $23,504. In December, 1920, the capital stock was doubled.

The bank's deposits at close of business May 8, 1930, were $1,418,841.58; resources, $1,625,018.83; capital stock, $50,000; surplus, $100,000; undivided profits, $29,195.61. The bid for the bank stock is now 325 and it has been paying an annual dividend of 20 per cent in the last two years. The bank opened for business at 2021 Nichols avenue and in July, 1925, moved to its own building at 2000 Nichols avenue.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.).—Wheat went up and corn down today, with all deliveries of corn breaking the season's low-price record. Predictions were current in some quarters, notably at Liverpool, that the United States Government crop report this afternoon would prove bullish as to wheat. Besides, indications pointed to enlarged export business in wheat today, with premiums the best yet this year for overseas shipments from the United States. On the other hand, corn planting was reported as making rapid progress, and bigger marketing of corn from rural sources was being looked for as soon as planting of the new crop is finished.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¼@¾c a bushel net higher. Corn closed ½@1¼c down, oats ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Wheat averaged higher throughout the day, although at times receding on account of syndicate selling for corn account. An outstanding factor as to corn was that conditions throughout most of the corn belt were favorable for field work, and that a decided trend has been toward increased corn acreage as one result of the campaign of late to curtail the amount of land devoted to wheat.

Today country offerings of corn showed a noticeable tendency to increase, and corn values soon gave way under the burden of an accumulation of orders from holders of future delivery contracts who were compelled to stop losses or put up additional funds as margins.

Meanwhile the general upward trend of wheat values was helped by estimates that Italy's wheat production this season will be 37,000,000 bushels less than was harvested last year. Reports of urgent need of dry weather in France operated as likewise an incentive to wheat buyers, and so, too, did unexpected upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool, where traders were expecting that the United States Government crop report this afternoon would prove bullish, although some leading Chicago crop observers were asserting that the report could hardly be otherwise than bearish. As a matter of fact, the Government figures, which were issued after the close of today's trading here, were generally construed as exceedingly bullish, suggesting a far smaller yield than expected and 18,000,000 bushels below the average of recent private forecasts.

Prospects of increased arrivals of corn dominated the corn market almost from the outset, despite assertions that the present ratio of prices between hogs and corn is an unusually profitable one for feeding. Oats followed corn, and May was sold at a new low price record for the season.

Provisions eased down on account of scattered selling, notwithstanding upturns in hogs values.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, May 9 (A.P.).—Business failures reported for the week by R. G. Dun & Co., totaled 525, compared with 472 last week and 428 defaults in the corresponding week last year. More failures occurred this week than was the case last week in each geographical section, with marked increases in all parts of the country. In each section the total was in excess of that for the corresponding week of 1929.

Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co. and Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey increased the tank wagon price of gasoline ½-cent a gallon to 9 cents. The advance in the New York Harbor area followed the advance by other companies recently, the current market ranging from 9 to 10 cents, with probably the great bulk moving at the lower quotation.

W. A. Barber, a director and a leader in the present management of the Childs Co., has been elected chairman of the board, a newly-created position. An executive committee also was elected, consisting of Mr. Barber, Leroy W. Baldwin, Clement R. Ford and Holiday S. Meeds, jr.

Old-timers in Wall street recalled that 29 years ago today was the date of the Northern Pacific panic. Northern Pacific stock was bid up to $1,000 a share, as shorts scrambled desperately to cover their commitments, only to find that the two leading banking houses, contesting for control of the road, had completely depleted the floating supply of the stock. The enormous short interest that had developed as the stock reached absurd heights in the open market contests stared ruin in the face. Other issues tumbled $50 to $60 a share. The bankers, however, finally settled with the shorts at a reasonable figure.

The Reichsbank statement as of May 7, shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion decreased 85,000; reserve in foreign currencies increased 2,614,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 155,700,000; silver and other coins increased 4,597,000; notes on other banks increased 10,345,000; advances decreased 81,835,000; investments decreased 30,000; other assets decreased 25,346,000; notes in circulation decreased 260,498,000; other maturing obligations increased 64,854,000; other liabilities increased 1,096,000.

A further increase in the near month premiums seemed to attract increased offerings in the cotton market here this week. At the close on Tuesday May contracts were selling 218 points above the new October contract, and at one time July contracts here were selling about 60 points above May in Liverpool and 70 points or more above July in that market. At these premiums there were reports that inquiries were being received here from Liverpool regarding the cost of shipping cotton back to this country for contract delivery and there was also a report that about 5,000 bales were being shipped to New York from Havre which might reach here in time for delivery in May. These advices seemed to promote realizing by trailing longs, particularly in the July position while at the same time, fear of too much rain in the Southwest and a belief that rains were becoming more urgently needed in the Eastern belt, led to buying of new crop months. The differences between old and new crop positions narrowed in consequence, and there was undoing of old straddles which involved sales of July against purchases of later deliveries.

Washington, Friday, May 9—5 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia and Maryland—Fair Saturday and probably Sunday; little change in temperature; gentle north, shifting to northeast or east winds.

For Virginia—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday, except possibly local thundershowers in extreme southwest portion; gentle variable winds.

The disturbance that was central over southern Manitoba Thursday night has moved slowly west-northwestward to southern Saskatchewan with diminishing intensity. Qu' Appelle, 29.88 inches, and the disturbance over the plains States and the southern Rocky Mountain region has remained almost stationary. Roswell, N. Mex., 29.56 inches. These disturbances have caused showers within the last 24 hours in the plateau and central and northern Rocky Mountain regions, the Plains States, the extreme upper Mississippi Valley, the northern lake region, and in portions of the Southern States. Snow is falling tonight at Swift Current, Sask. Pressure remains low from Greenland southward to Newfoundland. Belle Isle, 29.68 inches. An area of high pressure of wide extent is central over northern Hudson Bay. Nottingham Island, 30.58 inches, and pressure remains relatively high off the South Atlantic coast. Hamilton, Bermuda, 30.16 inches, and off the north Pacific coast, Eureka, Calif., 30.12 inches. The temperature has risen in Iowa, southern Minnesota and the southern plateau region, and from Manitoba eastward to Quebec, and it has fallen along the Middle Atlantic coast. Unseasonably warm weather still prevails almost generally over the eastern half of the United States, but abnormally cool weather persists in the Rocky Mountain and southern Plateau regions, in the western portions of the Dakotas and in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The indications are for local thundershowers in the lower Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the interior of the Atlantic States Saturday and Sunday and probably in the upper Ohio Valley and the southern Appalachian region Sunday afternoon, and for generally fair weather elsewhere in the Washington forecast district during the next two days. Temperature changes will be unimportant.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

COUNTY OFFICERS ELECTED BY G. O. P.

J. E. Spaulding Again Picked for Chairman by Arlington Group.

CONVENTION AIDS NAMED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

In one of the bitterest fights in the history of the Republican party in Arlington County, J. E. Spaulding in a three cornered race at the county Republican convention held at Lyon Park last night, was reelected county chairman. The vote stood, Spaulding, 91.1; Carl Marshall, 40.43, and L. C. McPherson, 12.47.

Despite the previous announcement made by Mr. Spaulding, who is now a resident of the annexed section of Alexandria City, that he would not again be a candidate, his name was placed in nomination by Col. J. G. Pepper, who headed the delegation from Arlington Precinct. The nomination was objected to by Mrs. Mary M. Lockwood, from Clarendon. She based her objections on the ground that Mr. Spaulding was not a resident of Arlington County at this time.

A ruling given by L. C. McNemar, attorney, was to the effect that the only qualifications were that the candidate be a voter of the State. Herbert H. Porter, presiding chairman, ruled that Mr. Spaulding was eligible.

Others officers elected are Mrs. Lola B. Sanderson, vice chairman, and Mrs. Eva Fay Pumphrey, secretary.

Delegates to the District convention, which meets at Orange Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, are J. E. Spaulding, John P. Agnew, John J. Clarkson, Mrs. John P. Agnew, Col. J. G. Pepper, Harry Whitehead, G. H. Daniels, Roger L. Daniels, Mrs. J. B. Lowell, Mrs. Grace S. White, Mrs. A. H. Brooks, Mrs. Lola B. Sanderson, Ray R. Cogswell, Chester Cogswell, H. D. Coffman, Stephenson White, Mrs. Clara E. Cogswell, J. Foster Hagan, W. R. Rose, Clarence R. Ahalt, H. L. Woodward, Mrs. Eva Fay Pumphrey, Mrs. E. C. Major, Joseph McPherson, E. H. Whittaker, M. E. Porter, Mrs. Mary Morris Lockwood, Dr. J. B. Gould, B. M. Hedrick and W. Broderick.

R. W. Kincheloe was unanimously reelected president of the Barcroft School and Civic League at its meeting held last night at the Community House. Other officers elected are: Mrs. C. F. Chew, vice president; C. O. Potts, secretary, and S. Y. Denson, treasurer.

The president announced that the standing committee will be announced at the June meeting.

Plans for the annual picnic which will be given jointly by the league and the Parent-Teacher Association the early part of June were completed.

It was announced that the league will have for its principal business at its next meeting the question of the proposed sewerage and school bond issues.

The Leeway Citizens Association will, at its meeting to be held Tuesday night, have as its principal business the election of officers.

A youth giving his name as Cletus Kowalskis and age at 17 years was picked up on Mount Vernon Boulevard yesterday morning by County Officer Hugh Jones. He was taken to the county courthouse, where he was questioned by Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of Public Welfare of Arlington County.

The boy stated that he left his home in Scranton, Pa., about eight months ago, going to Newark, N. J., where he found work for a while in a gasoline station. He then went to Philadelphia, where he worked in a garage. Coming from Philadelphia, he reached Washington Thursday and spent the night at a mission house. He said he was without funds when he reached Washington and left the house yesterday morning. When found he told the police he was making his way to Richmond looking for work.

He is being held at the County Jail for further investigation.

Services at St. George's Episcopal Church tomorrow morning will be conducted by the rector, the Rev. Henry J. Miller.

Members of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., and the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, will attend the services in a body.

Tuesday night there will be a meeting of St. George's Volunteers at the parish hall at 7:30 o'clock.

Plans are being made by the Arlington County Garden Club for its spring flower show, which will be held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, May 23 and 24. Nonmembers and members are invited to exhibit and help to make the show a huge success.

CONSTITUTION MOVE SCORED BY PASTOR

Methodist Conference Hears Opponent of Written Church Charter.

VOTING IS UNDER WAY

Dallas, Tex., May 9 (A.P.).—Possible "petrification" of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church under the restriction of hampering doctrine was the keynote sounded today by opponents of a written constitution for the church as the general conference, in session here, gave over the day to discussion of the document.

The warning against ossification was sounded by Walter Anthony, clerical delegate from Savannah, Ga., whose oratorical plea to the church to forget the constitution and bend its efforts to world purification brought waves of applause from the nearly 500 church people.

The Rev. Mr. Anthony called the delegates' attention to the episcopal address, in which the church was urged to greater effort toward the reformation of America.

"You are forgetting this great goal," he said, "in squabbling over the technicalities of a document which will only lead the church to the place where King Tut is—mummyfication."

Despite this and other pleas, the conference started consideration of the constitution as written by a special committee, taking up the separate articles and voting each one up or down. Many predicted that in the event each article was separately accepted, the constitution as a whole would be rejected. The church heretofore has operated under the so-called "rules of discipline" and an unwritten constitution.

Unification with the Northern branch of the church was dealt a hard blow with the report of the unification committee, recommending that no steps be taken at this conference toward uniting with the Northern church, which has voted to merge with the South church. This committee's report, however, may not be accepted when it reaches the conference floor.

The committee meeting was executive. The temperance committee also voted to hold executive sessions. Fraternal delegates from other church bodies were heard at tonight's session.

The occasion was informal and was presided over by Justice George L. Browning, of the Supreme Court of Appeals, president of the chapter.

Invocation was given by the Rev. F. C. Riley, of Orange. Mrs. Charles P. Lee, president of the General Federation of Women Voters, made a short address on "What Conservation Means to Women." Former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd spoke briefly on the improved standards of living conditions in Virginia through conservation of natural resources.

The effects of forest taxation on on the holding and development of forest property was the subject selected by C. H. Morrissett, State tax commissioner, who declared that the problem was one of county taxation and not of State or Federal taxation. Present methods of taxing forest property, Mr. Morrissett said, were denounced as utterly unsatisfactory, but stated that more study would have to be given the problem before any changes could be safely recommended, and adopted.

G. C. Leach, of Washington, D. C., chief division of fish culture, spoke on producing fish for Virginia waters. Col. Daniel L. Porter, member of the House of Delegates from Orange and Madison Counties, was also one of the speakers, his subject being "enactment of conservation laws."

Max Fleischer, the last speaker on the program, gave a short address on the State organization, and read a message of felicitation from Maj. A. Willis Robertson, who was unable to attend.

The addresses were interspersed by instrumental and vocal music. Miss Irene Leake, of Orange, coloratura soprano solist, rendered several selections with Miss F. B. Perry as accompanist.

Justice Browning motored from Richmond to preside at the meeting. He was accompanied by Justice Louis F. Eppes and Attorney General John R. Saunders.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA came home in high glee, her arms filled with packages.

"I'm gonna make something you like," she said, unloading her wares on the kitchen table.

First thing that struck my eye was a can of malt. So I gave her a big hug.

"You're gonna make home-brew, eh?"

"Molasses candy," she flashed, as I picked up the can and surveyed the label.

"Molasses candy, me eye! This is for home-brew——"

"The man told me it makes candy," said Luella. "That's why I got it."

* * * *

SHE hauled out her pots and pans, went to work. When she was called to the phone, I dissolved a cake of yeast she had in the icebox and put the seething solution in the syrup.

"There!" said Luella, with a sigh of satisfaction, finishing her task. "When this hardens it'll be candy."

She put it on the window sill to jell. It musta been too warm or something. The stuff didn't harden. Instead, it started to ferment. Sure enough, it started to brew.

"Good heavens!" cried Luella, smelling the concoction. "We'll be arrested——"

"Whered'ye get that WE stuff? You mean you'll be arrested."

"Oh, dear; oh, dear," she signed, "whattum I gonna do?"

Luella was in distress.

"You see how these things come about," I told her. "I suppose you've read the decision of the Supreme Court, covering this very case?"

SHE hadn't read the decision. "What did it say?" she asked.

"As near as I can fathom it, anybody is guilty who assembles the utensils and the ingredients that go to make the finished product."

"The finished product?"

"Home brew——"

"But I started to make molasses candy," she declared.

"How can you prove that to the authorities? It's home brew, isn't it?"

"Is it?"

"Can't tell exactly until it's a day or so older, but——"

"But what?"

"It certainly looks and smells like home brew!"

"In that case," she said, with determination, "we'll get rid of it."

"All right; I'll call up some of the boys——"

"For what?" she asked.

"To help get rid of it——"

* * * *

SHE put down her foot. "Don't you invite anybody over here to break the law——"

"Listen at you, the old law-breaker herself. You made this stuff. What're you gonna do with it?"

"Throw it out," she said, and, suiting the action to the word, she grabbed the utensils, the ingredients and everthing she used to make the molasses candy—and out they went.

"There'll be no violation of the law around here," she declared, quite patriotically, "if I have to break every crock and jug in the house."

"Bravo!" I cried. "That's the spirit of '76!"

She was pleased at the compliment.

"It takes the spirit of '76 to kill the spirits of 1930," she smiled—and I agreed with her, though sometimes it seems the other way 'round.

ONE OFFER IS EXPECTED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A new franchise for the electric light rights in Alexandria will be offered for sale to the highest bidder by the City Council at its meeting next Thursday. The old franchise, granted 24 years ago, has expired, and the new one will be for a term of 30 years. The rights have passed successively into the hands of the various companies serving Alexandria and vicinity, and is now owned by the Virginia Public Service Co., which, it is understood, will be the only bidder for the new privilege.

This action was decided upon by the council at an informal meeting Thursday afternoon, which was attended by counsel for Virginia Public Service Co., and at which the new franchise was discussed at length. The matter of back taxes of approximately $23,000, which the city claims is due from the company, was also discussed, and it is understood the company has agreed to make payment of the sum.

The council received the petition and resolution addressed to it by the Northwest Citizens Association, protesting against the proposed changes in names of streets in the Rosemont section. Other citizens living in the newly annexed section have added their protests to that of the association, and, according to City Manager Wallace Lawrence, these protests will be heard in open meeting at a date to be announced later. Harry F. Kennedy is president of the Northwest Citizens Association and will represent it before the council.

The men's Bible classes of Virginia will hold a rally at the Richmond Theater Sunday morning, May 18, to organize for State-wide attendance at the National Federation meeting to be held in Washington June 7 and 8. The Alexandria City Federation has invited as a whole each class in adjoining territory and delegates from more distant points to attend the meeting here May 18.

It has been announced that the speaker at the Richmond Theater meeting will be one of the most effective evangelistic orators in the Bible class movement, Neill Jamieson, president of the Men's First Methodist Episcopal Class, of Gloucester, N. J.; president of the Camden and Gloucester County (N. J.) Federations and vice president of the New Jersey State Federation. Singing at the meeting will be led by John R. Thomas, of Rutherford, N. J., song leader of the National Federation.

Annual Madonna Night exercises will be held at St. Mary's Academy tomorrow night and will consist of a musical program, a playlet and a tableau which will be concluded with an address by the Rev. Hugh McFadden, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its annual Poppy Day sale at 717 King street on May 17, with Mrs. W. Cameron Roberts in charge. The proceeds of the sale will be devoted to the rehabilitation work of the auxiliary for the former service men and their families.

The reading course examinations for the renewal of certificates for public school teachers will be held at 10 a. m. May 31 in the office of Superintendent of Schools R. C. Bowton at the Jefferson School Building. The examination for high school teachers will be based on reading and extra-curricular activities by Roemar & Allen. The examination for elementary teachers will be based on "The Teacher Outside the School," by Marsh, and "The Problem Child in School," by Sayles & Nudd.

Superintendent Bowton has announced that any teacher wishing to take either of these examinations must notify him at once so that provision may be made.

May 20 has been selected as registration day, when the books of the registrars of the six Alexandria wards will be open for correction and amendments, and persons who, since the last election, have moved from one ward to another, are supposed to register in the ward in which they reside. It is also announced that persons who have attained the age of 21 years, or will reach that age between now and the date of the general election in November, should register, and upon payment of their poll taxes they will be eligible to vote in the general election in November, as well as the Democratic primary in August to nominate a candidate for Representative in Congress from the Eighth District of Virginia.

James J. Britt, former member of Congress from North Carolina, and also former Postmaster General, will address the adult Bible class of the First Baptist Church tomorrow morning.

The War Mothers of Alexandria will sponsor a Carnation Drive today for the benefit of World War veterans who are ill or disabled as a result of their service. The public is urged to support this drive, which is the first that has been put on by the local organization.

MANY EVENTS LISTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., May 9.—Two thousand Culpeper County school children, of all ages, will participate Saturday in the county school and health day exercises to be held at the fair grounds. This is the first event of its kind to be held in Virginia and is being watched by educational authorities from all parts of the State.

A shuttle relay race for boys, with twelve runners from each high school, will be the only interschool competition, the rest of the events being participated in by mixed teams designated only as Reds and Blues.

The parade of the five pointers, those children who have been certified by doctors as being up to par in regard to teeth, tonsils, eyes, ears and weight, will open the day. Local school officials estimate that there will be nearly 800 of these children in the parade.

Immediately after the parade there will be informal play for the first, second and third graders, under the leadership of the teachers. The Red and Blue teams of high school girls will start games of playground baseball and the boys will stage a series of general athletic events, such as races, broad and high jumps and baseball throwing.

The committee in charge of arrangements is made up of Profs. R. R. Tolbert, H. R. Kelly, H. H. Newlon, and Mrs. M. J. Hudson. T. R. Sanford, district supervisor of physical education for the State Board of Education, is assisting this committee.

Miss Ruth Campbell, assistant principal of Culpeper High School, says that the object of the meet is to tighten up the bond of friendship between the various schools in the county and eliminate some of the feeling of rivalry which grows up between schools when the only points of contact are competitive matches between them.
